FORMAL PROTEST OF JAPAN TAKEN UP BY WILSON AND CABINET

Viscount Chinda Presents Secretary Bryan With Protest Against California's Anti-Alien Land Law

CLAIMS THAT LAW VIOLATES TREATY

Cabinet Meets Early on Friday So That an Answer May Be Returned Promptly to the Japanese Embassy

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Japan's formal protest against the California alien land bill was submitted to Secretary Bryan at the state department early today by Viscount Chinda, in person. The protest will be placed before President Wilson and the cabinet by Secretary Bryan this forenoon, that an answer may be promptly returned to the Japanese embassy.

Secretary Bryan was a little late in arriving at his office, but five minutes after the appointed hour he was in conference with Viscount Chinda, who came to the state department alone. The conference lasted for half an hour, and at its conclusion the secretary and the ambassador left the department together, the former going directly to the White House to submit to the president the written communication which the ambassador had given to him, and the ambassador returned to the embassy.

Photographers snapped pictures of the two men as they came from the department side by side. The secretary declined to make any statement as to the character of the protest he had received until after the cabinet meeting.

"I have no statemetn to make at this time," was his only reply to all inquiries. The cabinet remained in session, and there were some intimations that some statement might come from the White House later.

Shortly afterward Secretary Bryan and the ambassador again met at the state department, but their conference was necessarily short. The secretary had to take a 12:30 o'clock train for New York.

Mr. Bryan said the conference with the ambassador would be resumed tomorrow upon his own return from New York. This was taken as an indication that the state department was not yet prepared, even after the brief consideration in the cabinet, to make a final answer to the Japanese objections, as presented today by the ambassador.

Other members of the cabinet refused without exception to discuss the situation further than to say the general subject had been gone over.

There is a strong probability of a special cabinet meeting tomorrow to permit Mr. Bryan to lay before the president and his colleagues the results of his further conference with the Japanese ambassador.

At the White House and the state department there was every evidence of the intention of the president and the cabinet to go into the question without delay and give to the Japanese government a prompt outline of the federal government's attitude toward the Webb bill, should Governor Johnson sign it.

It is believed that Mr. Walker's recommendation will be acceptable to the postoffice department, and that in due time Talley will be nominated by the president.

FRIEDMANN PATIENTS SHOW LITTLE CHANGE SINCE INNOCULATION

U. S. Government Surgeons Who Conducted Investigation Report to American Association

ASK PUBLIC TO SUSPEND JUDGMENT FOR AWHILE

Tests With Friedmann's Vaccine Do Not Justify Confidence Which Has Been Inspired by Publicity

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Public health observations so far into the condition of the patients inoculated by Dr. F. F. Friedmann with his tuberculosis vaccine, "do not justify that confidence in the remedy, which has been inspired by widespread publicity," is the opinion of the surgeons who have conducted the government's investigation.

This first authentic and official conclusion from the tests was announced here today before the American Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, by Dr. John A. Anderson, director of the government's hygienic laboratory, and Dr. A. M. Stimson, another public health surgeon, who were detailed to observe the progress in the Friedmann patients at Mount Sinai hospital in New York.

"We believe that at the present time," says the report, "we are not yet in position to express an opinion based on the present condition of patients under observation. The disease for which the remedy is used is prolonged and is characterized by periods of advancement and retrogression.

TIME IS NECESSARY.

"It is also one in which psychic influences are a powerful factor. Time is, therefore, necessary to properly evaluate the effect of therapeutic measures.

"We must not lose sight of the possible therapeutic value of this preparation and, on the other hand, it is necessary to guard against too great an optimism in respect to its merits. Without presenting in detail the conditions of patients under observation, we are in a position to state that the facts thus far observed do not justify that confidence in the remedy which has been inspired by widespread publicity.

"In our opinion, harm may have been done by this undue publicity in so far as it has lessened the confidence of tuberculosis persons in well-recognized measures of treatment or interrupted their use, and we are constrained to advise against any lessening of those well known measures which not only had effected cures, but which have reduced the incidence of the disease.

"We are aware that Dr. Friedmann does not wish to be judged scientifically on newspaper statements and he would undoubtedly disclaim responsibility for certain of those which have appeared. Nevertheless, it is on those that the public bases its opinion until replaced by reliable and unbiased scentific pronouncements, supported by convincing data.

HOW PATIENTS ARE DOING.

"In our series of patients Dr. Friedmann has almost exclusively made use of the intramuscular method in acute pulmonary cases, and a very considerable proportion of them have either developed no tuberculous infiltrate at all or have suffered from abscess formations. It is evident, therefore, that a very considerable portion of these patients may expect their treatment at the hand of Dr. Friedmann to extend over a long period.

"Concerning the cultures submitted to us, we may state that a series of experiments is under way. The bacillus has been found to be an acid fast organism having properties quite different from those of any tubercle baccilus with which we are acquainted. It appears to be identical with an organism cultivated from a few loopfuls of the material used for injection which Dr. Friedmann permitted us to place on culture media in his presence. We requested Dr. Friedmann to furnish us with a large amount of this material for examination, but this he declined to do.

MIXTURE YET SECRET.

"We can state, however, that living acid-fast bacteria are being injected by the intramuscular and intravenous method, although we are ignorant of what medium they are suspended in or what additional substance or substances may be contained in the final mixture.

The report covers exhaustively the history of the Friedmann "cure" so far as the facts have been available to the public health service from the time of its announcement in Berlin in November, 1912, and reveals the efforts of the public health service to gather

AMERICAN COLONY WINS BATTLE OVER MEXICAN OUTLAWS

Tired of Being Despoiled by Brigands, Americans at San Dieguito, Mexico, Take to the Warpath

LOOTERS DRIVEN FROM TOWN TO THE HILLS

Mexican Civilians Join Americans in Fight and Much of the Stolen Property Is Recovered

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 9.Tired of being raided and despoiled by every passing band of brigands, the little American colony at San Dieguito, Mexico, recently took to the warpath.

When a band of fourteen outlaws swooped down upon the colony, ten colonists, reinforced by five Mexican federal soldiers and a few Mexican civilians, pursued and defeated the looters and recovered a number of stolen horses.

President Huerta States Position of Mexico to U. S.

(By Associated Press.)

MEXICO CITY, May 9.—President Victoriano Huerta, during his conference yesterday with Henry Lane Wilson, the American ambassador, stated very clearly the position of Mexico in relation to the United States. The following official version of the conference was given to the Associated Press today:

"Provisional President Huerta respectfully stated to Ambassador Wilson that diplomat having referred to official matters, that the government of Mexico was disposed to arrange the affairs pending between it and the government of the United States. It was pointed out, however, that for the time being the American ambassador should understand the necessity which the government of Mexico has for abstaining from treating any official matter, with the exception of urgent affairs or ordinary procedure, for the simple reason that while the government of the United States did not recognize the government of Mexico all arrangements would be ineffective in view of the fact that the government of Mexico has no personality before the government of the United States.

"This was the substance of the conference between his excellency, Ambassador Wilson, and the president of the Republic of Mexico, General Victoriano Huerta.

"In addition, however, the government of Mexico, whether recognized or not by the United States, has adopted and will always adopt measures for the security of all the inhabitants of the country, whether its own nationals or foreigners, and this has been demonstrated by the attention given to the just petitions of those who have been in any manner injured by past revolutions.

"The United States and all the people have in possession irrefutable proofs that the government of Mexico is specially pledged to give guarantees to everybody without distinction of nationality."

Bachelor Leaves Big Fortune to Children Of Former Sweetheart

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Although he lost the hand of a girl he wooed in his youth, James Carey Russell, head of a coffee brokerage house here, kept green the memories of his romance and revealed them in his will in which he bequeathed $35,000 to each of the three children of the woman he had hoped some day to marry.

Russell died a bachelor and his most intimate friends were ignorant that he even had a boyhood romance. When he left Norwichtown, Conn., as a young man in 1880, to seek his fortune in New York, he hoped to go back some day for Mary Walt, only daughter of former Congressman John Turner Walt. But it happened that in Washington she met John Howard Welles, a nephew of Lincoln's secretary of the navy, and accepted his proposal of marriage.

The Welles had three children, John Phillip, who is now a cotton broker in Norwich, Conn., Winnifred, aged twenty-one, and Russell, now a student at Cornell, who was named for James C. Russell. After the death of Mr. Welles in 1907, Russell took an interest in his rival's old love and for nine years dealt with March he sent word for Mrs. Welles, who was also dying, of his decision to provide for her children. She died a week ago.

Depew Calls on President

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Former Senator Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, called on President Wilson to pay his respects today.

THE SENATE TO THE BAT

MRS. LONGSTREET READY TO CONTEST MRS. HAM

Echoes of Gainesville Postoffice Appointment Heard in Washington

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Echoes of Mrs. H. H. Ham's appointment as postmaster at Gainesville, lively discussion of the generosity of Congressman Lee in yielding to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson the nomination of the postmaster at Rome, and the presence in Washington of a number of their constituents served to interest the Georgia senators and congressmen today, and to keep the state in the limelight.

Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, who failed in her fight for reappointment at Gainesville, was at the capitol, bright and early, conferring with friends as to the best course to pursue. She was in better spirits than yesterday, and it is believed that she may contest Mrs. Ham's nomination before the senate postoffice committee. She resented the intimation that her administration of the Gainesville postoffice has not been satisfactory to the patrons of the office.

Congressman Thomas M. Bell, who recommended Albert S. Hardy for the postoffice, today received a letter from Senator Hoke Smith, declining to give Mr. Hardy his indorsement. Mr. Bell wrote to Senator Smith, following the nomination of Mrs. Ham, asking that he indorse Mr. Hardy.

The congressman declares that he will issue a statement to the public concerning the Gainesville postoffice. He feels that his constituents are entitled to understand his position. It is not known when the statement will be forthcoming.

The action of Congressman Lee in gracefully yielding to Mrs. Wilson the right to name the postmaster at Rome was commended on all sides today. The incident has attracted wide publicity and at the capitol today many members of congress sought out the Georgian to commend him for his gallant and chivalrous attitude.

"It was also very nice and generous of the president to ask a mere congressman for the right to name a postmaster," remarked a representative in discussing the incident.

"The president, of course, had a perfect right to name any person that he chose for the office, without consulting with or asking the consent of anyone. He paid quite a compliment to Mr. Lee in sending for him."

The postmastership at Waynesboro brought Mayor Frank S. Palmer and Sidney C. Jones to Washington today. Congressman Edwards has recommended the nomination of G. B. Banks, and this choice is not satisfactory to all of the patrons of the Waynesboro postoffice. The vacancy does not occur until July.

Judge Newt A. Morris, of Marietta, and David Comfort, of Tifton, are here to see the postmaster general about a tying device that has been patented by Comfort. Congressman Hardwick today arranged an interview for them tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

John Y. Smith, of Atlanta, stopped in Washington today for a conference with Senator Hoke Smith. He is en route to New York.

L. C. Mandeville and daughters, of Carrollton, are here, en route home from New York. They were the guests of Judge Adamson at luncheon today.

Captain Walter P. Eaton, of Waycross, one of the popular conductors on the Coast Line, is visiting Congressman Randall Walker.

Carriers appointed: Butts, Route No. 2, B. S. Gay; Griswoldville, Route No. 1, J. J. Barron, vice B. M. Van Buren.

ASQUITH AND CHURCHILL FEAR LONDON MILITANTS

Extra Guard Thrown Around Officials to Protect Them From Possible Attack

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 9.—Apprehension of the authorities over the threat by the militant suffragettes to eclipse their destructive acts of the past week was manifested by the precautions which were taken this morning when Premier Asquith and Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, accompanied by their wives, left Waterloo station on the Southwestern railway to proceed to the coast to join the admiralty yacht Enchantress, on which they are to make a long cruise in the Mediterranean.

A large number of naval aides, government deparemental secretaries and railway officials surrounded the party, formed by the cabinet ministers and those who had come to bid them goodby.

Beyond these there was an outer circle of detectives to protect the ministers from any undue attention by militant suffragettes or their male supporters. So great was the protecting force in the railway station that any demonstration by the suffragettes would have been impossible. Mr. Asquith and Mr. Churchill intend to inspect the British garrisons and naval stations in the Mediterranean.

A militant suffragette "arson squad" this morning set fire to a large unteneanted mansion near Barrow-in-Furness, Lancashire. It was destroyed. A quantity of suffragette literature was scattered on the lawns surrounding the house.

PRESIDENT AND LEADERS TO CONFER ON CURRENCY

Considerable Opposition to Early Consideration of Currency Reform Develops

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Details of the currency program for the house and senate will be discussed at a conference of congressional leaders with President Wilson tonight, or tomorrow. Considerable opposition has developed, particularly in the senate, to the proposal to hurry currency legislation at the extra session, and the leaders will endeavor to ascertain just how far the president desires to go and how far his wishes can be met in the present legislative session.

Up to this time Representative Underwood has been of the opinion that while the currency question might be taken up at the present session, no attempt should be made to put through a complete bill until the new tariff has gone into effect. A similar opinion obtains in the senate.

Representatives Underwood, Palmer and Glass and Senator Owen are expected to take up the question with the president.

If general currency legislation is attempted it is probable that an effort will be made in the house to bring up the so-called "money trust" bills for the regulation of stock exchanges, clearing houses and national banks, which resulted from the Pujo investigation in the last congress. Members of the house also expected after the currency bill has been disposed of a revision of the national banking laws will be taken up.

MUNSTERBERG FEARS AN ENGLISH-U. S. ALLIANCE

Harvard Professor Asks Peace Delegates Not to Antagonize German People

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, of Harvard, a German citizen, today told the American committee arranging for a celebration of 100 years of peace among English-speaking peoples, that there were many "non-English people," who regarded the movement as a forerunner of an alliance between England and the United States antagonistic to Germany. While he regarded such a view as absurd, Prof. Munsterberg added, he warned them to proceed carefully.

"We should proceed," said Prof. Munsterberg, "to avoid every appearance of this movement being pointed at non-English descendants in this country. There is not the slightest doubt but that there is a certain distrust and a certain fear that this movement would bring about fraction in the direction of those who are not of English descent. They fear they would be brought into a 'second line' as if they were citizens of the second class. I feel sure that this is far from our view; but the crowd misunderstands. If we have any idea that we intend to inspect the British garrisons and naval stations in the Mediterranean.

"There are many who believe that the purpose of the whole movement is to bring America to the service of England in order to fight Germany. That is certainly a most absurd understanding and it would be most unfortunate if such a view should gain more strength. There has been a century of peace with England but peace between Germany and this country has never been broken.

"I hope that those who are responsible for the details of the movement will not overlook the possibility of dangers."

Mr. Carnegie, presiding, replied to Dr. Munsterberg:

"We are so innocent of the charge," he said, "that we can not imagin that anybody would suspect us. The American has no preference, I might say. I suggest that the proposed monuments which are to commemorate the 100 years of peace of the past, also say this: 'With abiding faith in unbroken peace with all nations for centuries to come.' That will relieve you, professor.

"We have no more patriotic Americans than the German people," concluded Mr. Carnegie.

KANSAS BEGINS WAR ON LIQUOR SALESMEN

Many Charges in Kansas City, Kas., Against Dealers in Kansas City, Mo.

(By Associated Press.)

KANSAS CITY, May 9.—A conviction and fine of $500 today marked the opening of the prosecution of Missouri brewers by authoriteis of Kansas City, Kan., in an effort to stop interstate trade in liquor between that city and Kansas City, Mo., and to drive out "blind tigers."

Louis Segelbaum, driver for a beer bottling company on this side of the state line, was fined $500 because he had delivered beer at a Kansas City, Kan. house and collected for it there. Under the law liquor delivered in Kansas must be paid for at the point of shipment.

The cases of eight beer wagon drivers arrested yesterday under Chief of Police Gordon's order to arrest every brewery driver found on the street for alleged violation of the Webb law regarding interstate shipment of liquor were continued today in the Kansas City, Kan., municipal court.

WITH TWO MEN HELD IN TOWER, MYSTERY OF MURDER DEEPENS

Belief That the Detectives Had Positive Evidence, Which They Were Withholding, Dissipated by Admissions

SCOTT AND BLACK REFUSED TO NAME MAN SUSPECTED

Case Now Goes to the Grand Jury but No Action Is Expected for a Week—Search for Evidence Will Continue

Coroner Paul Donehoo and the six jurors who investigated the murder of little Mary Phagan in the National Pencil factory on April 26, concluded Thursday the most thorough and exhaustive probe of a violent death ever conducted in this county and probably in the state.

The jury recommended that Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the factory, college graduate and man of culture and refinement, and Newt Lee, an ignorant negro watchman, both be held for investigation by the grand jury.

But the mystery of Mary Phagan's death has not been solved.

After all of the evidence in the long and tedious probe had been given on oath before coroner's jury, and after two weeks of hard and conscientious work by the city detectives and numerous private detectives, Mary Phagan's death is still an admitted mystery.

NO POSITIVE EVIDENCE.

John Black, a city detective, and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, two men, who have been at work on the mystery almost since the minute Newt Lee telephoned police headquarters that he had found the body of a murdered woman in the basement of the fatcory, stated on the witness stand Thursday afternoon that they had no positive evidence that would lay the crime on any individual.

"We are working on a chain of circumstances," Scott told the jury. "I have no positive information as to who committed the murder," said Black.

There have been many rumors to the effect that the state is withholding from public much important evidence.

Undoubtedly the state did withhold evidence at the inquest, which would tend to strengthen the chain of circumstances, but the statements under oath of the two detectives that they had no conclusive or positive information which would make them name the man they suspect, served to show that the element of mystery has not been dissipated.

UP TO GRAND JURY.

Action by the Fulton county grand jury on the cases of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Pencil factory, and Newt Lee, negro night watchman, suspects in the Mary Phagan murder case, is not expected at least for a week.

Following the commitment of the two men by the coroner's jury Thursday afternoon, interest has been centered in the probable action of the grand jury. That body held one of its regular sessions on Friday morning, but no phase of the Phagan case went before it. The state's case is far from complete, it is said, and, there is much work before the officials will be ready to place their evidence before the grand jurors. The grand jury, however, can take up the matter of its own initiative, and since Judge W. D. Ellis especially charged it to investigate the Phagan case, it is said that two weeks will not elapse before the jury returns "no bills" or "true bills" against the men held by the coroner's inquest.

WHO JURORS ARE.

The present grand jury, which will be in office for this term of court, about two months, is composed of the following citizens:

GAILOR URGES CHURCH NOT TO CHANGE NAME

Episcopal Bishop Says Time Is Not Propitious for Change

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
SEWANEE, Tenn., May 9.—At the second session of the diocesan convention of the Episcopal church, reports of committees and two matters of interest to the church at large came up.

One of these was the statement from the pulpit by Bishop Gailer in his annual address to the convention that he had changed his views regarding the change of name of Protestant Episcopal church. At the last general convention Bishop Gailor signed the change of the name to the American Catholic church, but, according to his statement this morning, he will vote against the change at the next general convention to be held this year.

His reasons he gave as follows: First, that while he was not opposed to the change of names and while he agreed that the church had every right to both the name Protestant and Catholic, he would vote against the change to be brought up at the general convention, because he did not think it advisable or expedient to change at the present time. Second, that he did not think that the church was prepared for the change in more ways than one, and third, that he is afraid that it would create factions and divisions in the church itself should the name be changed at this coming time.

Bishop Gailor's influence is well known and such a statement coming from him will very likely be of great weight to those to whom the subject appeals.

The bishop has unofficially asked for assistance in diocesan affairs. "Not for repairs, but for buildings," the bishop said. The convention went at once to the election of a bishop suffragan. Ballots were cast without nominations and after five ballots, there being a deadlock between the names of the Rev. W. S. Claiborne, of Sewanee; the Rev. Mercer P. Logan, of Nashville, and the Rev. W. C. Whitaker, of Knoxville, the meeting was adjourned until the afternoon when it was decided that the election be postponed until next year.

Alabama Delegates Will Oppose Change

The clerical delegates elected to the general convention are Stewart McQueen, of Montgomery; E. A. Penick, E. W. Gamble, Selma; Matthew Brewster, of Mobile. The lay delegates are W. W. Screws, W. H. Taylor, Montgomery; Robert Jemison, D. M. Drennan, Birmingham.

He was met at the railroad station by a large delegation of army and navy officials as well as representatives of the city.

AVIATOR KILLED WHEN AEROPLANE HITS TREE

Lieutenant Park, Military Aviator, Was on Flight to Los Angeles From San Diego

(By Associated Press.)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 9.—Lieutenant Park, a military aviator, who started from San Diego this morning on a flight to Los Angeles, was killed at Olive, nine miles north of Santa Ana.

Lieutenant J. D. Park met his death in a fall of less than fifteen feet. He had alighted a quarter of a mile from the Olive school house on account of a heavy mist that confused him as to his bearings and after giving a message to a little girl to telephone to Glenn Martin in Los Angeles, he rose again. Then he swooped over a low hill and crashed into a tree. He was dead when the child and her father reached his side.

Lieutenant Park was attached to the Fourth cavalry, but for several months had been detailed with other army officers for active air service near San Diego.

Park has made many flights there and attained the army altitude record recently. It was to demonstrate the efficacy of the aeroplane in long distance army scouting operations that he attempted today's flight.

Lieutenant Park had a notable record for service in the Philippines, especially in operations against the Moros.

LOWEST TARIFF EVER WRITTEN PASSES HOUSE

Vote of 281 to 139 Registered on Passage—Five Democrats Bolt

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Democratic tariff bill, passed yesterday in the house with a majority of 142 votes, went over to the senate today to be referred to the finance committee.

Finance subcommittees have had the bill under consideration informally and they are about ready to report to the full committee on the various schedules and administrative features. Few changes will be recommended by the subcommittees, though protests against many rates have been filed.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the entire finance committee, will call a meeting at once to consider the briefs of manufacturers and other interests before the bill is reported to the senate, which probably wil be about June 1.

No public hearings on the bill are to be granted, though the Republicans plan to insist upon them after the bill has been reported.

CASCARETS CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

Cascaret Users Never Have Headaches, Constipation, Biliousness or Sick Stomach

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver and Stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too. (advt.)

DAILY CAMPAIGN STORY

$1,000 In Gold Is What This Young Man Wants.

"I am going to leave 746 prizes for the other contestants but I want that thousand dollars in gold," said a young man in Campaign headquarters yesterday. "I have set my heart on being a first-class electrical engineer some day, as I believe that is the line for a young man, who wants to be somebody in his line to get into. I look forward to a great future for men in that business who will go into it with what your Campaign Editor calls the "right spirit" and that little 4-1-4 pounds of gold that you are offering as first prize will come in mighty handy to help me carry out my plans.

I have been following all the campaign stories closely and will certainly exercise all my rights to extra answers this time. I did not do it last year and lost out entirely, but this year I will get your Answer Book and am studying out the pictures very closely and hope to carry off the first prize. I find the plan suggested in one of the stories, of setting the hard ones to one side and going after them a second or third time, if necessary, to be a good one. I don't consider the pictures so very hard either, only, of course, most of them call for a good many answers to be sure you have the right title among them. But your rule allowing ten answers to each picture helps out wonderfully and I can see no good reason why I cannot be in the winning. I will certainly submit the full result of my skill and not about one-fifth of it, as I did last year, by eliminating so many of my possible answers. I was afraid of that tie for a prize, but no fear of a tie for me this year and will submit all likely answers to each picture up to the limit allowed.

"Your Answer Book will be ready May 15th? All right, you can count on me getting one sure. The first thirty-five pictures free with the Answer Book? But I will have them, as I get The Journal every day. Yes, I can give that thirty-five to a friend who is not taking The Journal. I had not thought of that. Thank you for the suggestion as I know a young man who is as bright as a new dollar and will appreciate them.

"Good day and good luck to The Journal."

MERCER MAKES REPLY TO PAFFORD AND KNIGHT

Berrien County Fishing Controversy Continues—Warden Explains Position

In a statement given The Journal Friday morning, State Game Warden Jesse E. Mercer makes clear his position with reference to the trouble arising from certain fishing privileges in the pond known as the Banks estate, near Milltown, Berrien county, and declares that his only grievance is against the mayor, William M. Pafford, and the justice of the peace.

The statement of Mr. Mercer comes in reply to a signed article from Mayor Pafford and a telegram sent to Governor Joseph M. Brown from J. J. Knight, both of which appear elsewhere in this paper.

Mr. Mercer said:

"The state game chommissioner himself has never been disposed to summarily indict the people of Berrien county. He has believed all along and has stated repeatedly that he has not the slightest doubt that the people of the county and the officials will see that justice is done and that the laws are enforced at Milltown.

"The idea of sending troops to Milltown originated somewhere else; certainly not in this office. It is a new thought. I have not asked for troops, or thought of troops, nor want troops or guns. I don't carry one myself or approve of carrying guns. The truth is, that is one of the things that I resent most with reference to the Milltown situation. One of the men at least that I have been trying to get into the courts down there, with the assistance of the very faithful county officers is one who carries his gun on his boat with him, and caressing it calls it 'his permission' or his warrant for lawbreaking or doing as he pleases.

"With reference to the sheriff and the solicitor, Mr. Holsclair tells me that the solicitor gave him more encouragement and counsel than any other man while he was in the county; that the solicitor is anxious to do his duty in the matter and that he had the encouragement of the sheriff's deputy, but did not meet the sheriff.

"I am depending on both officers, the sheriff and the solicitor, more than any other two citizens in the county, unless it be the county court judge. These officers and other officers of the county court had been diligently trying to bring some of the Milltown lawbreakers to justice.

"I have no grievance against any citizen in Berrien county and no criticism to make against the action of any except the mayor and the statement of the justice of the peace, based on the statement of Mr. Holsclair, which is substantiated by three reputable and truthful people in that part of the state. I have no doubt, even these matters will be perfectly and agreeably adjusted or explained when I see them, as I shall within the next few days.

"I am charged with the enforcement of the law, and while I have no personal ill will against any, I feel that it is my duty to find out the trouble and try to correct it if possible.

"If the law has not been violated, no man will be sentenced with my consent. If, on the other hand, there has been a violation of the law, I will bring the violators into the courts of Berrien county, where I am sure justice will be done."

News has been received in Atlanta of the death Friday morning in Rome, Ga., of Mr. Walter S. Wimbish, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Archer.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Clara Isvind and Mrs. Archer, and one son, Carter Wimbish, of Birmingham.

Mr. Wimbish was a former Atlanta man and had many friends here who mourn his death.

POLICEMAN DENIES ANY MISCONDUCT AS CHARGED

By Three Women He Arrested in a Recent Raid on Spring Street

Policeman James Kirk, who has been charged with disorderly conduct by Mrs. N. P. Powell, Mrs. Lena Bernard and Mrs. John Bryant, three women whom he arrested in a raid at 95 Spring street some time ago, denies emphatically the charges the women have brought against him.

He declares the charges are without foundation, and says further that he gave both Mrs. Powell and her husband fair warning to quit running the kind of a place they were, but they continued to keep the women there. The raid was made, he says, only after he had witnessed over a dozen men visit the place. Four men escaped through windows when the officers went to the front door, Officer Kirk says.

The hearing of the injunction brought by Mrs. Powell through her attorneys, Gober and Jackson, will be held Saturday.

CITIZENS OF 7TH WARD DON'T WANT MAUSOLEUM

A vigorous kick will no doubt be registered against the proposed site for the mausoleum at a meeting of the Seventh Ward Improvement club, which is called for this Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Peoples Street school house.

The notice sent out by the chairman states emphatically that the club doesn't want the mausoleum on Cascade avenue, and urges all of the citizens living in the Tenth ward and West End to be at this meeting.

SOCIAL SURVEY BEGINS IN ATLANTA ON JUNE 9

The Russell Sage foundation will start a preliminary survey of the city of Atlanta on June 9. Two expert investigators will be in charge of the work. The housing of the poor, conditions of churches and social conditions generally will be probed.

The work will be discussed Friday afternoon at a meeting of the social service committee of the chamber of commerce. R. L. Foreman is chairman of that committee.

BURGLARS OVERLOOK SOME REAL VALUE FOR BAUBLES

Burglars who entered the hairdressing establishment of Dr. S. A. Bookhammer, at 71 1-2 Whitehall street, Thursday night, overlooked several thousand dollars' worth of hair and tortoise shell combs and carried off several trays of rhinestone hair ornaments, worth in all about $25.

They entered with a "skeleton" key, apparently, and ransacked the place, but to the delight of Dr. Bookhammer, their tastes had not been cultivated properly along certain lines.

To Celebrate Anniversary

Rev. C. A. Ridley, of the Central Baptist church, will celebrate his first anniversary as pastor of that congregation on the first Sunday in June. A statement from the church is that there, have been in round numbers 400 additions to the membership and that property worth $20,000 has been acquired.

Dr. Ridley will attend the Southern Baptist convention in St. Louis next week, and immediately on his return will go to pushing the new building project. He says that he hopes to see the walls of the new building completed during the present year.

BRYAN AND CARNEGIE TO SPEAK ON PEACE

NEW YORK, May 9.—Addresses by Andrew Carnegie and Dr. William Dunning, president of the American Historical association, were on today's program of the international conference which is arranging the centenary celebration of peace among English speaking peoples. The sessions here will close tonight with a banquet at which Secretary Bryan will make the principal address. Tomorrow the delegates begin their tour of American cities.

CREMATORY INJUNCTION UP TO SUPREME COURT

Case of Citizens Against City and Destructor Company Is Argued

Atlanta's crematory injunction suit had an inning before the state supreme court Friday when arguments for both plaintiffs and defendants were made.

This case originated in the Fulton county superior court several weeks ago when J. N. Renfroe and others sought an injunction against the city of Atlanta and the Destructor company to enjoin the carrying out of the contract for the new $376,800 incinerating plant.

Judge George Bell refused to grant the restraining order, and the plaintiffs appealed to the supreme court. They contend that the crematory contract is illegal because it contemplates an obligation on the city of Atlanta for future years.

A number of points of illegality are urged in the petition for injunction, which is said to be sought by friends of Mayor Woodward. The mayor has fought the crematory contract consistently since his election.

The case of the plaintiffs was argued before the supreme court by Attorney C. P. Goree. City Attorney James L. Mayson and Assistant City Attorney W. D. Ellis, Jr., represented the city of Atlanta, and the Destructor company, which is building the new crematory, was represented by Attorney S. N. Evins.

"BLUE SKY" LAW WANTED BY BUSINESS MEN

The "blue sky law" committee of the chamber of commerce will meet at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to discuss a bill this committee will try to have passed this summer to protect the people of Georgia against the sale of faked stocks and "gold bricks" generally.

"The people of Georgia are swindled out of thousands of dollars every year by fakers," said one of the committee Friday. "Our committee is called the 'blue sky law' committee, because it looks sometimes as if people will buy even blocks of blue sky if offered for sale. The bill we will propose will be modeled along the lines of the Kansas 'blue sky' laws, and will save the people of Georgia thousands of dollars every year."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO ORGANIZE JUNIOR ORDER

The "Junior order of the chamber of commerce," which will be composed largely of school boys and young business men, will be formally organized at the chamber of commerce rooms at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The purpose of the junior order will be to interest younger Atlantians more in civic affairs and to keep them so thoroughly in touch with the work of the chamber that they can step into the work of the misger body without difficulty.

To Cure Corns, Calluses Bunions and Aching Feet

The following is said to be the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, aweary, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house.—(Advt.)

ERUPTION ALL OVER FOOT AND LEG

Up to Knee. Burned Severely. Itched So Badly Nearly Went Crazy. Scarcely Able to Walk. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Was Cured.

1021 Payne St., Louisville, Ky.—"About four years ago I got some poison on my leg. My foot broke out in pimples and began to itch so badly I could not keep from scratching it bloody. The eruption spread all over my whole foot and leg up to the knee. My leg was as red as fire. The itching would keep me awake at night, and I scratched so hard the blood ran down over the whole leg. It would then burn severely. I could not stand a stocking or a shoe on that foot or leg it was swollen so badly. Every summer my leg would get so terribly sore and itched so badly I nearly went crazy. I had to keep it wrapped up all the time. I was scarcely able to walk and hopped around on one foot all summer.

"I tried all kinds of salves and medicines but nothing cured my leg until one day I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and commenced to use them. After the first application I went to sleep and slept all night. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment on my self and was cured." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. Heilmann, Apr. 16, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

MAYOR PAFFORD DEFENDS CITIZENS OF MILLTOWN

Deny Reports of Lawlessness, J. J. Knight Wires Governor "Reports Untrue"

J. J. Knight, a citizen of Berrien county, has wired to Governor Joseph M. Brown his version of the alleged game warden troubles in reference to the fishing rights in the big 8,000-acre pond, known as the Banks estate, in that county.

Also William M. Pafford, mayor of Milltown, has made a statement denying reports to the effect that lawlessness has characterized the attitude of certain Berrien county people or that the lives of any of the game wardens were threatened. He declares facts have been misrepresented.

The telegram to Governor Brown was as follows:

"Newspaper reports Milltown lawlessness absolutely untrue. Can furnish affidavits by as good men as Georgia has that Deputy Warden Boiscair stated privately and repeatedly that he was misled and would not have taken warrants had he known facts. Perfect order here; suggestion sending troops resented.

(Signed) "J. J. KNIGHT."

Upon receipt of the wire the governor took occasion to reiterate his statement made to The Journal during the early part of the week in reference to the suppression of any possible trouble in the vicinity; that the matter was entirely in the hands of Game Warden Mercer unless real trouble manifested itself. He added, however, at that time, that he hardly expected trouble to develop, and continued that no interference would come from him unless he was asked by a sheriff or judge for military protection.

MAYOR PAFFORD'S STATEMENT.

Mayor Pafford, in explaining the position of the people in Milltown, issued the following signed statement:

"In the first place, the evidence furnished the game department which inspired Mr. Mercer to proclaim that his wardens have been intimidated, their lives threatened and that the local authorities (referring, probably, to the sheriff of Berrien county and the solicitor of the city court) 'are too much in sympathy with the lawless fishers to give any assistance,' is absolutely untrue.

"The efficiency of these two officers and their prompt service in executing the business of their office has never been questioned or criticised to this extent before.

"The Georgia legislature will first have to enact a law authorizing Mr. Mercer and his wardens to stop the fishing on certain sections of Banks pond, which he threatens to do, 'at the expense of every cent of his department,' for section 7 of the game law privileges a person to fish, with permission from the owner of the land, which all those twenty citizens who were arrested on the 3d instant claim to have had—not from the owners of Banks' estate, but from the real owners of the land, as the law prescribes.

"The Banks estate owns comparatively a very small part of the land which the water covers. They were privileged to back the water on a part of the remainder for the purpose of operating machinery, which they have ceased to do for about fifteen years."

A FORMER VISITOR.

"In regard to the warden sent about a month ago,' a Mr. Peyy from Ben Hill county, drove through on a buggy and spent the night near town at the home of one of Berrien county's best citizens, and in conversation with folks there and with the people on our streets the next day he learned secretly that the parties he was sent to prosecute were not the real violators of the law. Before our people knew it his business he had apprehended the real violators (all of whom are connected with Mr. Boiseclair in this prosecution) and proceeded to swear out warrants for netting and trapping illegally against the parties, yet Mr. Mercer says he was intimidated.

"In regard to the 200 or 300 who Mr. Boiseclair says threatened his life, even surrounded him and made all sorts of threats, I will say that there were no threats of violence by these people. There were about fifty who attended the trial to learn the law regulating the fishing privilege.

WAS "MISINFORMED."

"Mr. Boiseclair stated to several citizens here that he was misinformed as to the true condition of affairs; that the whole thing had been misrepresented to him, and that these people whom he had arrested had a legal right to fish, as they were fishing with hook and line—and that he was sorry he had made such a mistake. But when he gets back to Atlanta he sees the splendid chance of advertising his wardenship and proceeds to put the state game warden on double quick, to ascertain whether the governor had at his command a militia strong enough to prohibit a few citizens at Milltown from fishing on their own land with hook and line.

"WM. M. PAFFORD."

WORK STOPPED ON NEW PEACHTREE BUILDING

Mrs. Mary W. Potts and the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company were enjoined from doing further construction work on the concrete building at the corner of Linden and Peachtree streets, Thursday, when the MacIntosh-Crawford Construction company filed a petition against them, claiming that $4,483 is due the company under its contract.

The Mackie-Crawford company claim they did certain work for which the above amount is due at the instruction of A. N. Canton, the supervising architect, and Mrs. Potts, agent. The petitioners further set forth that if work is continued on the building it will conceal what they have done and for which $4,483 remainder has been refused payment.

After closing their contract, the petition declares that it was not long before Mrs. Potts had transferred the property on which the building is being erected to the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, to secure a loan of $100,000.

One Gun Snares Two in The Meshes of the Law

Sam Ellington and James Thompson, who are as good friends as Damon and Pythias, even if they (Ellington and Thompson, not Damon and Pythias), are black, were ambling down Decatur street near police headquarters Thursday.

They were just preparing to seek liquid refreshments at a Decatur street thirst counter, when Thompson fell to the pavement in an epileptic fit.

As Thompson in his suffering rolled over and over again on the sidewalk, a murderous looking revolver fell from his pocket.

Ellington, realizing that the police would be called to the scene at once and fearful for his friend, quickly seized and pocketed the revolver.

He was just a little late, however, in his act of friendship, for a watchful county policeman, standing across the street, saw the gun fall from the afflicted negro's pocket, and saw the other negro hide it.

About that time Call Officers West and Mallory arrived and the county officer told of the gun he had seen. The city men called for an ambulance, which took Thompson to the hospital.

"Give me that gun," said one of them to Ellington.

The surprised negro reached to his hip pocket and produced the pistol, by the act giving the police a clear case of "carrying concealed weapons" gainst him.

Ellington was carried to headquarters and then one of the policemen went over to Grady, where the officials were notified to have Thompson transferred to headquarters when he recovered.

There he, too, will face a charge of carrying concealed weapons, for the gun was seen to fall from his pocket.

PRESBYTERIANS GIVEN UNIVERSITY CHARTER

Oglethorpe University Granted Petition for Charter by Judge Pendleton

A charter for the Oglethorpe university was granted by Judge J. T. Pendleton, of the Fulton superior court, Thursday. It is for a term of twenty years and gives the university all the privileges incidental to conducting an educational institution of the highest type. The petition was filed by Attorneys Watkins and Latimer.

The incorporators are:

James W. English, Sr., Frank M. Inman, John K. Ottley, Thornwell Jacobs, Edgar Watkins, Hoke Smith, W. L. Moore, Hugh K. Watkins, E. G. Jones, James R. Gray and Hugh Richardson, of Fulton county; George W. Watts, of Durham, N. C.; J. T. Anderson, of Cobb county, and J. W. Hammond, of Spalding county.

Only members of the Presbyterian church are allowed by the charter to become members of the board of directors, and each member must make a donation of $1,000 for the use of the university.

No capital stock is mentioned in the petition for a charter, and under its terms the university is allowed to buy real estate for its own use, but not for profit.

FLORIDA OFFICER GETS ALLEGED FORGER HERE

Detective Hattick, of Jacksonville, Fla., arrived in Atlanta Friday morning to take charge of I. H. Weaver, arrested here Thursday on a forgery charge. Weaver is wanted in Jacksonville and other Florida cities on several charges of passing worthless checks.

Weaver's work is said to have been very clever, and detectives say he passed checks in many cities before he was caught.

WHY NOT GET A GUARANTEE WHEN YOU BUY LIVER MEDICINE?

Every Article of Merit that is Sold These Days is Guaranteed—No Guarantee Often Means No Quality

There is very little excuse for any person to claim that he has been "stung" on a purchase. Fifty years ago the buyer had to look out, but today it is unusual to find a merchant who will not return the money for any article that has proved unsatisfactory.

An excellent example of this tendency for fair dealing is shown by the clean-cut guarantee that all drug stores are willing to give on Dodson's Liver Tone.

Any person who pays 50c for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and does not find it gentle and most pleasant liver tonic, harmless, but a sure reliever of constipation and to successfully take the place of calomel, can get his money back just as quick as the druggist can get it out of the money drawer.

Dodson's Liver Tone is rapidly taking the place of calomel. It is absolutely harmless, sure in its action and causes no restriction of habit or diet. No wonder the drug people are glad to guarantee it, while other remedies that imitate the claims of Dodson's Liver Tone are not guaranteed at all.—(Advt.)

Jacobs' Pharmacy

Evolution of the Retail Druggist

IN ATLANTA, in 1884, a man faced one of the strongest wars of incredulity and antagonism that ever opposed commercial progress.

When Dr. Joseph Jacobs established a cut-rate drug store in Atlanta, immediately the war cry sounded from competitive retailers, jobbers and manufacturers. The opposition formed combinations to crush Jacobs' Pharmacy. Whence this suicidal price notion? Profits were large for the retail drug business, but the volume was small. The charge was made that no honest drug store could cut prices. The public was skeptical, as at that time they had confidence in the men leading the fight against cut prices. Why, for many, many years all druggists had charged the same full prices, yet none made any business progress. And for this reason the idea of reduced profits seemed to them to mean business suicide.

But 29 years have elapsed. We are proud of our own growth; but we are more gratified that through our persistent effort and aggressive innovations, one after another, the retail drug business of today is on an equal footing with any other commercial enterprise, the druggist is recognized as a progressive business man, and Atlanta enjoys not only Jacobs' Pharmacy but many excellent drug stores which rank with the best of any city.

There is not a finer stock of medicinal and toilet goods in America than at Jacobs' Pharmacy. And as established in 1884, reasonable prices prevail.

Our Chemists ranks among the most expert, and our Laboratory is one of the best equipped in America; it manufactures nearly 300 toilet and medicinal preparations.

We offer patrons the benefit of our experience as manufacturers, as well as a stock of toilet goods unsurpassed, anywhere.

BIG AUTO FIRE ENGINE GIVES EXHIBITION RUN

Official Test of New Apparatus to Be Made Next Week at Headquarters

The new automobile fire engine for the new station in the Tenth ward was driven through the principal downtown streets of Atlanta Friday morning and attracted a great deal of attention.

It is a very large machine, painted red with yellow trimmings. The fittings are nickel. There is a big bell in front of the driver's seat, and a siren horn operated by a push button makes an even louder and more blood-curdling noise than the siren on the chief's automobile.

After its excursion through town the engine was driven to the fire station in the Seventh ward, where it will be oiled and "limbered up" Friday afternoon.

The official test will be made next week at the fire headquarters on West Alabama street, in the presence of Fire Chief Crumbley, the members of the board of firemasters, the members of council, and Mayor Woodward.

The engine was made by the American-LaFrance Fire Engine company, of Elmira, N. Y. The board of firemasters accepted this company's bid of $9,000 last fall, and made a tentative contract for the engine to be delivered. A regular contract could not be made, because the money was not in the budget at that time to pay for the engine. Mayor Woodward, when he came in office, declared war on the contract, just as he did on the various other moral obligations brought forward to his administration, and finally succeeded in getting the board of firemasters to reopen the whole matter and advertise for new bids.

Meanwhile, the LaFrance company, anticipating no hitch in the moral obligation contract, had built the engine and shipped it to Atlanta. So when new bids were asked, the company simply put in its former bid on this engine, and the board of firemasters, after considerable discussion and with five out of nine not voting, though all nine were present, accepted the LaFrance bid.

Mayor Woodward is not satisfied with the board's procedure. He thinks every one present should have voted. Also, he says, he doesn't admire the tactics of P. O. Hebert, agent for the LaFrance company. But he probably will sign the contract if the engine shows up well in the official test, as he says he doesn't want to make it appear that he is a confirmed "grouch."

SEEK SUPPORT OF MAYOR ON WHITEHALL GRADING

A delegation of property owners who are interested in the proposed regrading of Whitehall street from Mitchell to Broughton street called on Mayor Woodward in his office Friday morning to solicit his support of the project.

To mayor said afterwards that he had no objection, provided council went about the matter in a business-nlike way. He wants to be satisfied that $25,000, which is the amount the property owners want as a starter, will complete the part of the project undertaken. He also wants to be satisfied that the work will be completed without delay.

The project contemplates regrading not only Whitehall street between the streets above mentioned, but also the regrading of South Forsyth street and the regrading of several cross streets to conform.

The street committee of council will hold a special meeting Friday afternoon to take fina laction in the matter.

CHILDREN'S FIELD DAY WILL BE HELD SATURDAY

The school children of Atlanta will have the opportunity of their lives Saturday to show their prowess in outdoor sports, when the annual field day exercises take place at Ponce de Leon park.

There will be about 4,000 children at the park, and the different events and exercises will take up the greater part of the whole day. In the morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, the grammar school children will contest for prizes. There will be three prizes for each event.

In the afternoon the children have running exercises, in which events there will be two contestants from each grade, the entrants to range in age from seven to ten years. But the most important affair of the day will be the big drill which will be held in the afternoon just before the judges award the prizes. In this drill all of the girls will take part, wearing dresses appropriate to make the colors of the national flag.

The motion picture people will be on the job, and everybody will be happy to think that he or she will have a chance to see how it all happened, later during the month, by going to see one of the movies.

CHILD IMPERSONATOR TO ENTERTAIN NEWSBOYS

When the S. A. L. fraternity of Atlanta entertains the newsboys of the city at a feast in the Y. M. C. A. hall next Tuesday evening there will be on the program of the evening Miss Mary Roberta Steadwell, of Nashville, Tenn., a noted impersonator who has appeared in several of the largest universities in the country.

Her selections at the feast will consist of child impersonations, for which she is especially famous. She is a graduate of the school of expression at Vanderbilt university and is said to be a mistress of her art.

TIMES' UPWARD TREND BIBLE STUDENTS' TOPIC

J. F. EMERSON,
Of Minneapolis, who will lecture here.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, J. F. Emerson, a Bible student and lecturer of Minneapolis, Minn., will speak on "Was Man Created for Heaven?" at the Cable Concert hall. The speaker has been a student of the Bible for a number of years and discusses human affairs from that standpoint and takes a very optimistic view of the future. He considers the wonderful advancement in general knowledge and inventions as merely a preparation for something still better.

Mr. Emerson says: "Men are running across new devices all the time. What do you think of wool made from limestone? That may sound strange and hard to believe were it not for the fact that there are so many things being done now that only a few years ago would have been considered impossible. Regarding the wool made from limestone the "Everyday Life" has this to say:

"Wool not the product of sheep is being utilized abroad for the making of men's clothing. This is known as "limestone wool," and is made in an electric furnace. Powdered limestone, mixed with certain chemicals, is thrown into the furnace and, after passing through a furious air blast, is tossed out as fluffy white wool. When it comes out of the furnace the wool is dyed and made into lengths like cloth. A pair of trousers or a coat made from this material cannot, it is claimed, be burned nor damaged by grease, and is as flexible as cloth made from sheep's wool."

The International Bible Students' association who have arranged for the meeting have arranged for the expenses so that it will be entirely free, similar to lectures given in public schools and other educational institutions. No collection will be taken.

They Flee Even Unto Macon to Escape That Fine of "Jedge Briles"

Rather than face a $5.75 fine, a possible stockade sentence, and the ire of "Jedge Briles," whom he always had heard reported as a "terror" to evildoers and lawbreakers, A. S. Knight, manager of the drug store of Dr. A. L. Curtis, at 259 Peters street, fled to Macon last Tuesday with his wife and two small children.

Knight was charged with violating the garbage ordinance. He was to have faced the charge in court last Tuesday, and it was expected that the usual nominal fine of $5.75 would be imposed. When the case was called in the recorder's court, Knight was not among those present.

A search was instituted and it was found that the druggist had gone to Macon, taking with him his entire family and leaving a good position behind him. A wire from Dr. Curtis brought him back Thursday night, and Friday morning he appeared in court, where Judge Broyles imposed the $5.75 for the first offense and a fine of $10.75 for contempt of court.

When the judge asked Knight why he didn't appear last Tuesday, the druggist replied that he "was afraid."

"Afraid of what?" asked the judge.

"Well, your Honor," Knight replied, "I had heard and read so much about Jedge Briles' court and the stockade that I was just naturally scared to face it."

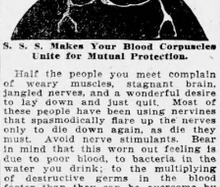
Wan, Weary and Worn Out

If You Feel Fagged to a Finish and Utterly Used Up Here is Quick Relief.



S. S. S. Makes Your Blood Corpuscles Unite for Mutual Protection.

Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, jangled nerves, and a wonderful desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using nerves that spasmodically flare up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood faster than they can be overcome by the white corpuscles; and to what is known as auto-toxemia, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

The medicinal value of the components of S. S. S. is relatively just as vital and essential to well-balanced health as those of the grains, meats, fats and sugars of our food.

If you feel played out go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S., Swift's Sure Specific. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, but from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine just as active and just as timely as to a man who has been lost in the mountains, is about starved and comes across a settler just cooking a savory mess of good honest beef. Do not neglect to get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. HERE IS TESTIMONY OF WITNESSES GIVEN AT THE FINAL SESSION OF CORONER'S JURY IN PHAGAN CASE

Full Story of Hearing Thursday Afternoon When Frank, Newt Lee, Detectives Black and Scott and Several Character Witnesses Were Placed on the Stand

The verdict of the coroner's jury that Mary Phagan came to her death by strangulation and its recommendation that both Mr. Frank and Lee be held for investigation by the grand jury was rendered at 6:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon and marked the conclusion of one of the most remarkable inquests ever held in this state.

Deputy Plennie Minor carried the news of the coroner's jury verdict to Mr. Frank and to the negro. Mr. Frank was in the hallway of the Tower, reading an afternoon paper, when the deputy approached him and told him that the jury had ordered him and the negro held for an investigation by the grand jury.

"Well, it's no more than I expected at this time," Mr. Frank told the deputy. Beyond this he made no comment.

Newt Lee, says Mr. Minor, was visibly affected. He seemed very much depressed and hung his head in a dejected manner.

The jury was empanneled by Coroner Paul Donehood on Monday, April 28, and has held four long and tedious sessions for the taking of testimony in addition to meeting to inspect the body and the scene of the crime. Twice the body of Mary Phagan was exhumed at the order of the coroner, in order that physicians might search more thoroughly for clues and evidence.

The reports of the physicians, who made these examinations, have never been made public, even the evidence of the county physician, Dr. J. W. Hurt, having been given the jury behind closed doors. It is said that even to the jury the physician did not go thoroughly into his investigation. The verdict of the jury was rendered after only twenty minutes of deliberation.

Superintendent Frank and the negro, Lee, both searchingly examined for the second time by the coroner at Thursday afternoon's session inquest, but neither added materially to former statements. Lee was principally qustioned about the interview, which Mr. Frank had with him in a cell at police headquarters.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL.

Harry Scott, the Pinkerton operative on the case, gave interesting testimony of his position in the probe of Mary Phagan's death. Mr. Scott refused to commit himself, when asked if he had definite information as to who killed Mary Phagan. "I am working on a chain of circumstances—that is all," he said.

City Detective John Black in answering the same question said that he had no "positive" information as to the murderer.

A number of character witnesses were introduced towards the close of the inquest.

DETECTIVE HARRY SCOTT'S TESTIMONY AS GIVEN BEFORE CORONER'S JURY

An unexpected turn was given to the coroner's inquest into the mysterious murder of Mary Phagan Thursday afternoon, when Harry Scott, the Pinkerton detective who has been representing that agency in its work on the case, was called to the stand by the coroner. Mr. Scott was in the room at the moment.

One new detail that he revealed was in a reply to a direct question from the coroner, when he stated that Herbert Haas, attorney for Leo M. Frank and attorney for the National Pencil factory, requested him and the superintendent of the Pinkerton agency in Atlanta to withheld from the public any evidence they gathered until he, Mr. Haas, would consider it.

Their reply, said Mr. Scott, was that *they would withdraw from the case be*fore they would do that.

He proceeded to say that he and his firm still are retained by the pencil company.

Mr. Scott was called to the stand when Assistant Superintendent Schiff, of the pencil factory, left it.

He is assistant superintendent of the Atlanta agency of the Pinkerton detective service, he said. He lives at 52 Cherry street. The agency was retained in the case by the National Pencil company "to locate the party responsible for the murder of Mary Phagan." The engagement was made Monday afternoon, April 28, when, about 4 o'clock he received a phone call from Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the factory, and in response to it he (Scott) went to the factory to see Mr. Frank. There, said he, he found a group of men whom he afterward identified as Frank, Mr. Darley and others, standing around the time clock, talking. He introduced himself and said he wanted to see privately whoever was particularly interested in the case. He and Mr. Frank and one or two others went into a private office, and Mr. Frank called Sig. Montag, treasurer of the company, over the telephone to get authority to employ the detectives.

Asked how Mr. Frank broached the subject to him, Mr. Scott said the factory superintendent remarked: "I guess you've read of the horrible murder committed? We feel that the company ought to make some investigation to show the public we are interested in clearing up the crime. We want the Pinkertons to locate the murderer."

Mr. Frank then told him all he (Mr. Frank) seemed to know about the matter, said the detective. Mr. Frank said *that he had been down at police bar*racks a short while before, and that Detective Black seemed to suspect him of the crime.

QUOTED FRANK IN DETAIL.

Mr. Frank detailed his movements on that particular Saturday, said the detective. The witness quoted as he retory superintendent in detail as he remembered the relation, giving the same story that since has been elaborated by Mr. Frank himself and others on the stand. Mr. Scott said that the superintendent said he left the factory about 6:15 on the afternoon of Saturday, April 26. As he went out of the front door, he said, he saw Lee sitting on a packing box outside talking with Gantt, formerly a bookkeeper in the factory. Then he went on to relate the matter as it is already generally accepted, about leaving Gantt there and telephoning to the night watchman later after failing to get him once over the telephone.

After getting the watchman over the ttelephone and learning that everything was all right, Mr. Scott said, Mr. Frank told him he (Mr. Frank) "prepared to go to bed about 9 o'clock."

He asked Mr. Frank very few questions, said the detective. He took notes of what was told to him. He went over the building with Mr. Frank then, looking at the elevator, the time block, the machine room, where Frank pointed out to him a machine on which human hair was said to have been found that morning, and pointed out also what were believed to be blood stains on the floor. Mr. Darley accompanied them. He went into the basement with his escort, said the detective, and saw the trash pile where the hat and shoe had been found, also the spot where the body had been found, and the staple that had been pulled with the lock from the back door.

OFFERS NO THEORY.

Mr. Frank advanced no theory about the crime, said the detective, and offered no suggestions. He talked to him the night afterward at police headquarters, in the presence of Dtective Black, but he didn't ask the pencil superintendent for a statement because he understood the police had one already. He denied that Mr. Frank had reprimanded him for too much zeal or had remonstrated with him for trailing him (Mr. Frank).

REFUSES ATTORNEY'S REQUEST.

The detective answered a direct question, however, by saying that Herbert Haas, representing himself to be an attorney for Mr. Frank, did call at the Pinkerton office and there, to Superintendent Pierce and Mr. Scott, made the request that the detectives withhold from the police all information which they gathered until he, Mr. Haas, had considered it. They told him they would withdraw from the case first, said Mr. Scott.

"Who gets copies of your reports?" he was asked by the coroner.

"I think Mr. Sig Montag gets copies of all reports w: make," said the witness. He added, replying to questions, that his agency still is employed by the pencil company—"to fix the responsibility for this murder."

"Do you know anything about the conversation Mr. Frank and the negro *Newt Lee had along together at head*quarters?"

The detective replied that City Detective Black and he suggested to Mr. Frank that he employ this method for drawing from the negro all the information he could, and Frank agreed and went into the room with Lee. He did not know what passed between them, said the detective, except what he learned from the negro's relation of what was said.

DIDN'T TRY TO GET TRUTH.

Mr. Scott said that Newt Lee told him Mr. Frank did not try to get the truth out of him (Lee) during their talk at the police station.

That Lee said he accused Mr. Frank of knowing something and that Mr. Frank only hung his head and later told him if he (Lee) didn't stick to his story they would both go to hell.

That Lee said he told Mr. Frank the crime must have been committed in the day time, and Mr. Frank again only hung his head.

Mr. Scott said that Lee then said he had started to describe to Mr. Frank how he had found the body and that Mr. Frank said, "Let's don't talk about that any more" before he had finished.

Mr. Scott said that Mr. Frank had told him after the conversation with Lee that he couldn't get anything out of the negro. The witness said that Mr. Frank reported that he had asked Lee why there was a break in the time slip and that Lee said he had punched it.

Mr. Scott said that he did not find the bloody shirt at Newt Lee's home—that it was found by Detective Black and Detective Bullard. The witness said that he looked at the shirt and that it seemed to him it had not been worn and that the blood was fresh. He said that Lee, when shown the shirt, said, "That's my shirt," and later qualified his statement by saying that it might be his shirt; that he hadn't worn it in two years.

"Have you any definite information which makes you suspect any party of this crime?" the coroner asked Detective Scott.

WOULDN'T COMMIT HIMSELF.

"I wouldn't commit myself," replied the detective, who continued that his investigation was not complete and that he was working on a chain of circumstances.

"Is this chain of circumstances known to yourself alone?" he was asked.

"No," replied Mr. Scott. "Detective Black has been with me all the time on the case."

Mr. Scott was then excused.

DETECTIVE JOHN BLACK TELL THE JURY HIS VIEWS ON THE PHAGAN CASE

Detective John Black followed Detective Scott on the stand. He was questioned about the finding of the bloody shirt at Newt Lee's home. He said that on the Tuesday afternoon after the murder he went with Detective Fred Bullard to Newt Lee's house at 40 Henry street.

They searched the premises, he said, and found the bloody shirt in a clothes barrel in Lee's room. The shirt was near the bottom of the barrel and was covered with scraps of old clothes, he said, the barrel apparently being used as a dumping place for old garments.

Asked whether he had seen the shirt that Lee had worn the Sunday morning the Phagan child's body was discovered, Detective Black said it was not the same shirt that was found in the barrel. The shirt found at Lee's house had apparently been washed but not

Juror Langford at this poiont asked Detective Black, "Have you discovered any positive information as to who committed this murder?"

Detective Black replied, "Do you mean positive information? No, sir, I have not."

Detective Black contradicted the testimony given at the morning session by Lemmie Quinn by saying that Quinn had told him the Monday after the tragedy that he had not been to the pencil factory the Saturday before.

"Quinn made the statement in my presence two or three times," said the witness. "On one occasion Detectives Starnes and Campbell questioned him in the basement of the pencil factory and he said he had not been there."

Detective Black said that it was at his suggestion that Mr. Frank talked to the negro "to get the truth out of him."

NEWT LEE TELLS OF THE TALK HE HAD IN THE POPICE STATION

Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, was recalled and asked, to tell about any conversation he had with Mr. Frank at the jail or the police station. Lee said he had not talked to Mr. Frank at the jail, but that he had talked with him at the police station.

Mr. Frank came into the room, where he was, Lee said, and asked, "How are you feeling, Newt?"

"Not so good, Mr. Frank?" Lee said was his answer.

Lee said that he then told Mr. Frank that it was mighty hard on him "an innocent man" to be handcuffed there in the chair, and that Mr. Frank told him he knew he (Lee) was innocent, but he believed he knew something about the murder.

Lee said that he then vowed his innocence and that Mr. Frank said: "If you keep that up, Newt, we'll both go to hell."

Lee said that he then told Mr. Frank that the officers had said the girl was killed on the second floor; that he said in his rounds of the building he had to pass through the second floor room, which had been indicated, every half hour and that he would have known it if the murder had been committed there.

Lee said that Mr. Frank then said: "Let's don't talk about that. Let that go."

Lee said that the furnace had been fired on Friday, but that it had not been fired on Saturday. He went to work shortly before 4 o'clock. Saturday afternoon and called to Mr. Frank, as usual, "All right, Mr. Frank."

He said that Mr. Frank came out of his office, rubbing his hands, and told him he was sorry he had been forced to come to work so early; that he could have slept two hours longer.

Lee said that he told Mr. Frank that he needed some sleep and that Mr. Frank told him to go out and have a good time and come back at 6 o'clock.

Lee said that he didn't remember Mr. Frank having come out of his office to talk to him before; that he always called him into the office in case he wanted to talk to him.

Lee said that the street door was unlocked when he came to work at 4 o'clock, but that the double doors inside were locked. These double doors were usually unlocked, he said. Lee said that he got in by using his pass key.

The witness said that he didn't remember whether the trap door to the basement was open or closed when he came to work. The fireman always went to the basement through this door, he said.

Lee said that he then vowed his innocence and that Mr. Frank said: "If you keep that up, Newt, we'll both go to hell."

Lee said that he didn't notice any bloodstains on the second floor. It was dark, he said, and his only light was his lantern.

Lee said that when he returned to work at 6 o'clock Mr. Frank told him to wait until he put on a new tape before he punched the clocked; that he didn't use a key to unlock the clock.

Lee explained the pencil found in the clock by saying that he always stuck a pencil there to check himself, and to remember where he had punched last. He was positive, he said, that he had punched the clock every half hour between the hours of 6 p. m. and 3 a. m. the Saturday night of the tragedy.

Lee was asked if the bloody shirt found at his residence belonged to him. He said that he didn't know—it was found at his house, he said, so it must be his. Lee said that a "white lady" had made four shirts for him and this might be one of them. If it was a "store bought" shirt, it did not belong to him, he said.

SUPERINTENDENT FRANK IS ONCE MORE PUT ON WITNESS STAND

Leo M. Frank general superintendent of the National Pencil fatcory, was recalled to the stand. He was questioned regarding the elevator. The coroner wanted to know what kind of a door there is to the shaft on the office floor. The witness replied that it it a heavy door solid, that slides up and down.

"Where was the elevator on Saturday, April 26?" he was asked.

"I didn't notice."

"Where was it on Friday night?"

"I didn't notice."

"Was the door open on Saturday?"

"I didn't notice."

Asked whether it would not be possible for some one to fall into the elevator shaft if the door was open, he replied that there is a bar across the door.

"Where was the elevator after the murder?"

"I can only say it was at the office floor on Sunday morning," replied the witness.

The coroner reverted to the time-clock. "What time did you take the slip out of the clock?" he asked.

"I took it out, marked the time on it, and handed it to an officer," replied the witness.

"What officers?"

"I don't remember."

Regarding the guests who, his mother-in-law and father-in-law testified called at their home Saturday evening, the coroner asked him next.

"Do you remember a party at your home on the night of the murder?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you tell about it when you were on the stand before?"

"I wasn't asked."

"We asked you about whom you saw. Now can you tell us who was there?"

Mr. Frank named them, corroborating what his father-in-aw and mother-in-law had testified as to their identity. He didn't pay much attention to them, said Frank. He merely greeted them and continued his reading.

"Where were you sitting?"

"In the front room."

"Didn't the guests have to pass you when they went to the dining room from the front door?"

"Yes."

"When the officers came out Sunday morning to bring you down to the factory, what was said about something to drink?"

"I told my wife I wanted something warm to drink. One of the officers said that something would do me good. The implication was 'whisky,' but I didn't mean that. What I wanted was a cup of coffee."

He was asked regarding the telephone call during the night, and repeated that he thought when he got up that he had dreamed of the telephone ringing, and that later when he was told the officers had tried to get him he concluded that the dream was real.

"Did you see the girl's body?"

"Yes. I walked in, and they turned on the light and I looked at the body, recognizing her as the girl I had paid the day before."

"When did you hear her name first?"

"I don't recollect."

"What time did you get home on Sunday?"

"I don't remember, but I think it was about 1 o'clock."

When he telephoned home to his wife Sunday morning he did not give her any of the details of what had happened, he said. "When you went home, did you go into details?"

"No, I merely told them what the detectives had found. We didn't discuss it very much."

"What topic did you discuss?"

TELLS OF QUINN'S VISIT.

The witness said that Lemmie Quinn, a foreman in the factory, first told him about the visit to the factory on one of the days that he spent at police headquarters. He said Quinn remarked: "I was there at the office Saturday." The witness said he recalled it when Quinn mentioned about the time.

Mr. Frank could not recollect having told Quinn anything about withholding information about that point until his lawyers could pass on it. He had so many visitors, he couldn't remember a detail like that, he said. He couldn't remember who made the suggestion about consulting attorneys. He didn't know whether Quinn knew (when he recalled the visit to mind) whether he had a lawyer. He didn't remember how long he had counsel at that time.

"When did Quinn mention this visit on Saturday?"

"I don't remember."

"How can you lock the door into the dressing room where the blood was found?"

"I don't know. I suppose with keys. There is a door with a lock, in the partition. A spring in the lock keeps it closed."

"Is there any way to lock the doors and stop passage on the back stairs?"

"There are doors to the stairs, but I never heard of them being locked recently."

TELLS OF TELEPHONE CONVERSATION.

The witness was asked other questions, whose purport was not evident, about these two doors and how they stood that day, and the locks on them, etc. The fact was brought out that there was only one lavatory on that floor, and Mr. Frank, answering a direct question, said he did not enter it all day to the best of his recollection.

Regarding his telephone conversation with a detective who called him early Sunday morning, Mr. Frank said he didn't kno who it was, but learned later that it was a detective. "I would like to have you come down at once," he said he was told. He asked what had happened, and was told there had been a tragedy, and they wanted him to identify some one.

"He asked me over the phone if I knew Mary Phagan. I told him I did not. Then he asked me if I hadn't paid off a little girl who worked in the tipping department Saturday afternoon. I said yes, and he said, "We'll send out after you right away."

"Didn't you say the other day that the first time you heard Mary Phagan's name was in the automobile going down town?"

"No."

"Do you remember whether or not Harry Denham and Arthur White had any lunch with them on the fourth floor?"

"I don't remember."

"When you came downstairs to go out to lunch, did you lock the doors leading into the office?"

The witness did not remember. He was asked as to the disposition of the papers he had been working on. He could remember putting them under a paperweight, but could not remember whether or not he closed his desk. The only people in the building when he left them for lunch, said he, were Henry Denham and Arthur White and Miss White.

HIS WORK SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

One of the jurors asked him if he had had any trouble that day about the "time" (pay) of one of the girls working in the factory. He said no, but that Darley had noticed a discrepancy in the time of Miss Mattie Smith and had deducted some cash from the envelope.

Another juror asked, "Did you work on the financial sheet only in the afternoon?"

"Yes."

He got together a few papers pertaining to it, said the witness, before he went to lunch. The last thing he did there that afternoon was to balance his cash. "Did Miss Hall (the stenographer) assist you?" "No." He named again all the people whom he saw about the factory that day. "Do you know Mae Barrett?" asked a juror. Mr. Frank had not called that name. "I never heard of her," answered the witness. He said she could be employed somewhere in the factory, however, without his knowing it.

CHARACTER WITNESSES ARE CALLED IN THE CASE BY CITY DETECTIVES

Tom Backstock, of 21 Hightower street, a youth of about sixteen or seventeen years, testified that he worked at the pencil factory about a year ago. He didn't know Mr. Frank personally, he said, but knew him when he worked at the fatcory.

"Did you have any opportunity to observe his conduct with the women there?" the lad was asked.

"I saw him 'pick' at the girls," was the reply.

"Who were they?" the coroner asked.

"I couldn't tell their names now," he said. "I didn't work there long enough to get very well acquainted."

The coroner asked how Mr. Frank had acted and the boy said he had placed his hands on some of them. He didn't know how many times he had seen this.

In reply he mentioned the name of a girl, but said he had simply heard a rumor since the crime was committed. He knew nothing of his own knowledge.

The witness said he had never heard any of the girls complain, but had seen them trying to get out of Mr. Frank's way. He worked at the pencil factory about six weeks, he said, and stopped because he found a better position.

Miss Nellie Wood, of 8 Corput street, said that she didn't know Mr. Frank very well. She had worked at the factory two days about two years ago, she said.

Miss Wood said that she was employed as a forelady. Mr. Frank would come to her and put his hands on her "when it was not called for," she said.

"Any other girls?" the coroner asked.

"No, sir, not that I saw," she said.

"Is that all he did?" the coroner asked.

"No, that's not all," he witness replied. "He asked me into his office to talk business on the second day I was there. The subject of the conversation was whether I was going to stay there. He wanted to close the door. I objected and he said, 'Don't worry. No one is coming in.' He was too familiar. I didn't like it."

The witness said that Mr. Frank attempted familiarity and then tried to pass it off in a joke, but that she told him she was "too old for that."

Mrs. C. D. Donegan, of 165 West Fourteenth street, said that she worked at the fatcory about three weeks two years ago. She said that Mr. Frank had smiled and winked at the girls, but never more than that. She denied that she had told Detective Scott anything more than this.

CORONER DONEHOO POINTS OUT THE LAW TO THE JURORS

The coroner's charge to the jury was in part as follows: "You have heard the statement of the county physician. You have seen what caused death. You have seen the body and have heard the evidence in the case.

"It is your duty to inquire diligently as to how Mary Phagan came to her death. That was your oath. In case of unnatural death, you were to determine at whose hands death came.

"You have heard the county physician say strangulation caused death. In determining who is guilty of the murder you turn to the evidence, and if you find that any other party is implicated or participating to shield the murderer, he is guilty in the same degree.

"Your position in this matter is similar to that of a commitment court, not a trial court.

"If there is a reasonable suspicion in your mind directed against any person or persons in connection with this crime, it is your duty to hold them. You also will hold witnesses who are essential in trying this case. If you think anybody not actually connected with the case has important information bearing upon it, you can hold them.

"If you believe any one is concealing information, it is your duty to commit that person as an accessory of the crime."

RADICAL CHANGES IN STATE SANITARIUM URGED

Board of Trustees Makes Report to Gov. Brown Carrying Recommendations

Radical changes in the policy under which the eGorgia State sanitarium, at Milledgeville, is conducted are recommended in the report just filed with Governor Brown by the board of trustees.

An amendment to the law governing the admission of patients which will bar from the sanitarium feeble-minded children, harmless seniles, paralytics, persons awaiting trial for crime by pleading lunacy, and epileptics who are not insane is urged.

A sterilization law is recommended which will apply to certain classes of criminals and defectives, it being pointed out that such a law has been enacted by the states of New Jersey and Indiana.

The trustees suggest that the name of the institution be changed from the eGorgia State sanitarium to the Georgia State Hospital for the Insane.

SEPARATE INSTITUTIONS.

The legislature is urged to provide separate institutions for the care of the criminally insane, feebie-minded children, epileptics and paralytics, it being declared that the large number of persons of these classes now in the sanitarium are greatly interfering with the treatment and proper care of the really insane patients and proving a heavy burden upon the institution.

According to the report, which deals with the year 1912, there were on January 1, of this year, 3,429 patients in the sanitarium, for whose treatment and maintenance the state expended last year $530,000, the per annum cost for each patient being $153.06. During 1912 the number of patients received was 1,108. Of these 586 offered no hope of recovery.

It is estimated that there will be 3,629 patients in 1914 and 3,729 in 1915. An appropriation of $644,042.50 is asked for the sanitarium for 1914 and $662,290.50 for 1915. The suggestion is made that the maintenance appropriations be based upon an average of 50 cents per day for each patient cared for.

BADLY OVERCROWDED.

There are 1,011 negro patients at the sanitarium and the negro building is said to be badly overcrowded.

The death rate at the sanitarium for 1912 is said to have been very high, but no figures are given. Pelagra and tuberculosis are stated to have been responsible for a large number of the deaths.

Three of the eleven criminals committed to the sanitarium in 1912 were found to be sane.

A new $135,000 building for the acute insane is recommended, as are a $40,-0000 nurses' home, and a $100,000 annex for the negro patients.

BAPTIST TABERNACLE TO CALL NEW PASTOR SOON

Committee to Make Selection Wednesday of "International" Man

The Baptist Tabernacle's committee on pulpit supply plans to name a new pastor for the Tabernacle at a meeting to be held next Wednesday as a successor to Dr. Robert S. MacArthur, who recently resigned.

According to A. C. Boatman, chairman of the committee, a man of international reputation will be called.

Offices of the church state that the Tabernacle is in a better financial condition today than it has been in years. The recent sale of the infirmary made it possible to be relieved of the greater burden of debt, and other business transactions consummated since that time have helped still further.

C. W. Hatcher stated Friday afternoon that the church had determined not to issue a call until it was really financially able. "We are now on our feet," he said, "and in a position to call a man of prominence and one who is big enough for our pulpit."

In order to insure a full attendance Wednesday evening, that the call may come from every communicant possible, post cards announcing the meeting will be mailed to every member of the Tabernacle Monday afternoon, urging them to attend.

ATLANTA BARACAS WANT CONVENTION NEXT YEAR

Would Bring 1,000 Visitors Here—Meeting Being Held in Athens This Year

"Atlanta, 1914," is the slogan of a big delegation of Atlanta Baraca workers who are attending the State Baraca convention in Athens. The convention opened Friday morning and will continue through Monday. It is the wishes of a big delegatio nof Atlantians are carried out the next convention will be held here in May of next year.

It is pointed out that Atlanta is probably the biggest Baraca city in the south and has fifty well organized classes in active work, not to speak of many Philathea classes, who are associated in this convention with the Baracas.

In the Wesley Memorial Baraca class alone, of which Rev. Wilkie Collins is teacher, there are 200 members, and the entire fifty classes make the active membership of the Baracas in Atlanta total several thousand.

The convention would bring about a thousand visitors to Atlanta. Atlanta Baracas believe they can entertain the convention better than any other city in the state, and every effort will be made to gain the next meeting for this city.

Entertainment for the visitors is already assured. Atlanta Baracas say, and the convention would receive a cordial welcome.

SCUTARI IN FLAMES AS MONTENEGRINS ABDICATE

Fire Breaks Out in Turkish Fortress—Reported Work of Revenge on Europe

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, May 9.—Fire broke out in a bazar of the former Turkish fortress of Scutari this morning and, fanned by a high wind, rapidly assumed huge proportions. It was reported here that the Montenegrins started the blaze when leaving the city, in revenge for being compelled to evacuate it.

Vukotich Named Premier Of the Montenegrins

(By Associated Press.)

CETTINJE, Montenegro, May 9.—A new Montenegrin cabinet, under the premiership of General Vuketich, was formed today to take the place of the government which resigned when King Nicholas decided to evacuate Scutari at the behest of the European powers.

The foreign office opened negotiations with the commanding officers of the international fleet which has been blockading the coast of Montenegro, and arrangements were made for the evacuation of Scutari. This began yesterday, and by Sunday the last of the Montenegrin soldiers are to march out of the city.

The foreign admirals will then land detachments from the fleet and the formal surrender of the old Turkish fortress will be made to the combined international force.

King Nicholas said today in a speech to the Montenegrin parliament that in the interest of general peace and in order to save Montenegro and the entire Serb nation, he was forced to give in to the European powers. Russia, Servia and Greece, he declared, counseled submission on the part of Montenegro. Russia, however, undertook to continue to protect the little kingdom.

Portfolios of the new ministry are distributed as follows:

Premier—General Vukotich.
Foreign Minister—J. S. Plamenatz.
Minister of Interior—L. Gopnith.
Minister of Education—Lazar Miyuskovitch.
Minister of Justice—Liube Bakitch.
Minister of Finnance—Riste Popovitch.

SOLDIERS' HOME MATRON IS FOUND DEAD IN ROOM

Miss Ava T. Clayton Had Begun Her Last Day's Work, Friday

Miss Ava Thomas Clayton, matron of the Confederate Soldiers' Home, near Atlanta, for the past seven years, was found dead in her room at the home shortly after 8 o'clock Friday morning.

Miss Clayton was up about her duties as usual earlier in the morning and had given out the supplies for breakfast and the day. Apparently she was well and in the best of spirits.

At the hour mentioned she was wanted to look after some detail and could not be found. The matron of the hospital began a search and went to her room. When there was no response to a knock at the door she entered, and found Miss Clayton lying on the floor, cold in death. Heart failure is supposed to have been the cause.

The body was taken to the chapel of Barclay & Brandon Co. pending funeral arrangements.

Professor Taft will soon have another vacation.

The attendance on the Sunday schools, of course, will be brisk all through May.

Alas, there are no reduction sales of straw hats at this early stage of the game.

Civil Service, Real and Sham.

During the latter days of the Taft administration, thousands of fourth-class postmasters, Republican appointees, were placed in the civil service. This action was based upon the avowed purpose of taking these offices out of politics, but its real effect was to keep them in politics and to assure their occupants an unlimited tenure without regard to their fitness.

Postmaster General Burleson intends to require such postmasters to stand an examination along with candidates for prospective appointments. If they measure up to the tests of the service, then they be worthy of their position; if not, the public interests demand that they be supplanted by others who are competent.

In explaining this policy, the Postmaster General pertinently declares that "the mere placing of a great horde of persons in the classified service is not in conformity with the spirit of the civil service, since there were no tests to determine the merits of the applicants." The new order retains all fourth-class postmasterships in the classified service, but it provides for competitive examinations so that the efficiency of applicants may be tested.

Such a plan is in keeping with the inner purpose as well as the letter of the civil service. The order issued during the Taft administration was, on the contrary, purely political and covered approximately ninety-five cent of the positions under federal patronage. The fact that a candidate for a fourth-lass postmastership is a Democrat is not alone sufficient to justify his appointment; nor is the fact that a Republican chances to hold such a office sufficient within itself to justify his retention under a make-believe civil service order. Efficiency should be the prime test in all instances and no incompetent person should be permitted to hinder and burden the service.

What New York can't understand is why the rest of the country dares to be prosperous.

The small boy doesn't care to put back the hands of time when he is so close to the summer vacation.

A Century of Peace.

The approaching centennial of peace between the United States and Great Britain brings cause for equal satisfaction to both branches of the great English-speaking people. The fact that these two nations have passed a hundred years in friendly trade and brotherly intercourse is as memorable as any war that either of them ever waged or won.

It has not been a matter of mere chance that these harmonious delationships have remained so long unbroken. There have been divers issues, some of them very grave and delicate, between our Government and England. There have been disputes over national boundaries, over matters of commerce and industry, over Central American policies and time and again there have arisen occasions which in earlier times or between other peoples might have led to open conflict.

But everyone of these differences has been referred to arbitration and in each instance the issue has been amicably settled to the satisfaction of both countries. Indeed, the ease and certainty with which England and the United States have adjusted all their mutual difficulties during the past century are a luminous proof of the efficacy of arbitration as opposed to war.

It is a remarkable fact that the people of the United States and those of British America take scarcely a thought of the boundary between them. Along this vast front, stretching the entire continent's length, there is unbroken concord; and, as one observer declares, "No fort frowns, no navies confront each other on the Lakes, where an example of disarmament by agreement has long been set for all the world."

This century of Anglo-American peace is one of the cheering and distinctive chapters of all history; it should and doubtless will be worthily celebrated on both sides of the Atlantic.

Here is Huerta calling Uncle Sam unjust, Huerta being a shining example of what justice ought to be.

Home Rule for Towns and Cities.

The present day tendency to allow towns and cities as large a measure of home rule as is consistent with the interests of the State as a whole is reflected in a bill now before the Florida legislature. The proposed law would permit the people of any municipality to amend their charter or change their system of government by a direct vote at the polls, without first appealing to the State legislature. This plan is, of course, hedged about with due restrictions. No community would be suffered to establish a plan of government that would be in conflict with the rights or the laws of the commonwealth; but where the matters involved are of purely local concern, each town would be allowed to settle its own problems and manage its own affairs.

The common sense and justice of this policy are manifest. In Georgia, as in other States, the Legislature must give a great deal of time each session to the enactment of local bills that are of no interest whatsoever to the State at large. The majority of the members know nothing and care nothing about such matters. They vote perfunctorily, if at all, and in nine cases out of ten accept the judgment of the representatives from the community in question. In these circumstances a great saving of time and energy could be effected by permitting the people of the particular town or city to make such charter changes as they desire.

Furthermore, it is clear that when a majority of the citizens of any town or city wish to amend their charter in a manner that will not conflict with the State's laws or welfare, they should have the right to do so; they should not be required to go through a labyrinth of legislative red tape in order to make their will effective.

Such a plan was inaugurated a few seasons ago in New Jersey during the administration of Woodrow Wilson and largely at his instance. It has worked to the complete satisfaction of the municipalities and of the Legislature. It will ultimately be adopted in all States, for it is based upon the essentially American principle of local self government; it is based upon popular rights and common sense. Reports are that the Florida bill will pass. It is to be hoped that some such measure will be proposed and enacted by the General Assembly of Georgia.

It's human to attempt shifting the blame on "environment" or "heredity."

Just think of the pensions that will follow the world-wide wars and rumors of war.

Rev. Dr. George Smith.

There has passed in the death of Rev. Dr. George C. Smith, of Macon, a man whose rich and gracious spirit endeared him to three generations. He was a contemporary of statesmen and churchmen whose names have long been historic; he was a fellow-worker with the upbuilders of the new South and from his delightful reminiscences the children of today have gathered fresh interest in the life of their grandsires.

Dr. Smith had rare gifts of observation and memory and a keen sense of human interests. His yesterdays never lost their liveliness or color; nor did the fact that he had dwelt in other times and among other people dull for a moment his hearty interest in the present and in the men and the events of his latter years. He was a genealogist, but to him genealogy was a human story, not a dusty record of names and dates. He wrote history as he would have written romance. He ministered to men, not as a theologian, but as a friend and brother.

Until the past few years Dr. Smith was a frequent contributor to The Journal, in which many of his engaging articles have appeared. His death is mourned by all who knew him personally; and by a still wider circle of readers his memory will long be cherished.

Now comes the statement of the Southern cotton mill man who will not close down, let the tariff fall where it may.

The Forsyth Street Underpass.

Months ago a committee of Council was charged with the important task of perfecting details for closing the Forsyth street underpass; but apparently this work is no nearer a beginning now than then.

To whatever circumstance this long delay may be due, it is essential to public interests that some definite steps be taken forthwith to carry out this sorely-needed improvement.

Traffic is being congested and the deevlopment of a great thoroughfare impeded simply for the lack of a little energy or promptness on the part of the responsible authorities.

The State has authorized the city to close the Forsyth street underpass under conditions that can easily be met.

Council has appropriated a fund especially for this purpose.

There is thus no apparent obstacle in the way of actually beginning work on this important enterprise.

How much longer is this improvement, which so vitally concerns the community's welfare to be neglected?

THE INCOME TAX

II. THE PROPOSED LAW.
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The proposed income tax law as drawn mainly by Representative Cornell Hull, of Tennessee, and adopted by the ways and means committee as a part of the Underwood tariff bill, largely follows the English ideas of income taxation, although there are some features of the English law, such as the differentiation between earned and unearned incomes, that are omitted from the Underwood measure. The bill takes cognizance of the recent supreme court decision exempting from the corporation tax corporations which simply hold leases on property they have rented to other people or corporations. It also prevents corporations from counting as an operating expense the taxes they will have to pay on bonds which contain clauses exempting the holders of the bonds from taxes. These two items are important, more especially the latter, because if such a provision were not made Mr. Carnegie's bonds would escape taxation and thousands of other coupon clippers would be in the same boat. The supreme court decision that a railroad company merely owning a railroad property which it leases to others is not doing a corporate business has deprived the treasury of nearly $1,000,000 of corporate tax a year. Still another far-reaching provision in the bill provides that corporations holding stock in other corporations shall pay tax upon the dividends from those stocks in spite of the fact that the income of the corporation paying the dividend already has been taxed. This is intended to place a burden of double taxation upon big holding companies or trusts.

• • •

The bill makes numerous changes from the income tax law of 1894. Under that law, for instance, personal property inherited was rated as income; but under the proposed law only the income from such property is taxed. Likewise profits upon real estate transactions are reckoned as they are, and not arbitrarily. If a man bought a farm ten years ago for $10,000 and sells it for $20,000, in fixing his profit the average of the ten years will be taken and his income tax upon the transaction will be reckoned upon $1,000.

The law exempts $4,000 from taxation in every income, so that a man pays his tax only upon that part *of his income that is in excess of the $4,000 exemp*tion. This applies to everybouy except the foreigner who lives abroad and enjoys an income from American property; he must pay the tax upon every cent of his income. The committee calls the tax of 1 per cent the normal rate, and this applies to all incomes above $4,000. Upon all incomes exceeding $20,000 and not exceeding $50,000 it provides an "additional tax" of 1 per cent for that part of the income exceeding $20,000; between $50,000 and $100,000 the "additional tax" becomes 2 per cent, and for all income in excess of $100,000 the "additional tax" is 3 per cent.

• • •

The definition of income is so comprehensive that one can scarcely imagine anything escaping under it. *In computing net incomes deductions from gross in*come is made to include the necessary expenses of a business, but not personal, living or family expenses. Deduction for payable interest is allowed, as are deductions for taxes other than the national income taxes, for losses in the conduct of business, for depreciation, and for worthless debts.

• • •

President Wilson will get his salary exempted because the constitution forbids increasing or diminishing a president's salary during his term of office. The same is true of the existing judges of the United States courts and for the same reason, but other government officials are not exempted, altough the officials and employes of state and local governments are exempt. In drafting the bill the principle of holding immune from taxation the instrumentalities of the state and local governments was recognized, including both officials and securities.

• • •

The law cannot be dodged by the head of the family giving a portion of his income to his wife and each of his minor children, for it expressly provides that the income of husband, wife and minor children, living together, shall be reckoned as one income. A wife permanently living apart from her husband is entitled to a separate income.

• • •

If the bill becomes a law as drafted, the people subject to it will have to pay a tax upon their incomes for the clendar year of 1913. The question has been raised whether or not a tax that would be imposed upon income received prior to the enactment of the law might not be held unconstitutional as being retroactive, but the ways and means committee thinks not.

• • •

Only those persons who enjoy a net income of $3,500 are required to make a return of their incomes to the collectors of the internal revenue. Those who are required to make these returns must give their gross incomes, their deductions and their net incomes, making itemized statements of each. Double taxation is avoided by a provision that dividends received from corporations and other artificial persons which have paid an income tax upon their net earnings are not to be included in returns of net incomes. It is provided further, however, that where a persons enjoys an income of less than $4,000, and part of it is made up of income from dividends or other profits subject to taxation at the source, he cannot claim exemption for this latter part of his income unless he shall, not less than thirty days before the return of his income is due, *file with the person who would otherwise be re*quired to withhold and pay the tax for him, an affidavit claiming the benefit of such exemption.

• • •

The bill provides that returns shall be made under oath or affirmation by the first of March, that assessments must be made and the taxpayers notified by the first of June of the amount of their assessments, and that collections shall be made before the first of July. A penalty of 5 per cent and interest at 1 per cent a month is added for taxes not paid within ten days of the tax collector's demand therefor.

RULES FOR THE DINER OUT.

In these dark days when to live's so expensive,
One is delighted to be asked to dine.
A bachelor chap, with acquaintance extensive,
Can save half his keep—to say nothing of wine.

Of course, he must pay, with his humor and japery.
He is invited because he's a wag.
He—also, of course—mustn't injure the papery,
Pocket the silver, or gather a jag.

Taking a few cigars home is permissible;
If the host's negligent, you may insist.
Kiss all the children—they're nearly all kissable,
But don't kiss the butler—he's sure to resist!

Do not agree with your hostess too speedily.
Let her convince you—acknowledge it then;
Nor should you keep your eye on the food greedily—
If you behave they'll invite you again!

Worst of the thing is when there's other company;
For future favors then you must compete.
And if you're dull, and the other guests hump any,
You may lose out on a good place to eat!

Yet, on the whole, dining out is delightful;
You meet other people and husband your pelf
And in time you are married—and then, as is rightful,
You play the host to the bachelors yourself!

GLORY

BY DR. FRANK CRANE
(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

What mankind wants most of all is glory. It means the deed, the word, or the state of being, which shines.

The real hell of men and women is dullness, dryness, humdrum.

The old painters put a line of light about the heads of saints. It was called a halo. It meant there was something in the nature of these superior souls that shone.

Moses' face shone when he came down from Sinai; Jesus' whole form shone on the Mount of Transfiguration, and there is a legend of an Irish saint who when praying in his lonely hut filled it so with light that luminous rays were seen issuing from the cracks of the wall. Buddhist lore is full of shining ones.

All this is an expression of the deep conviction of the race that the highest state of man is when he shines.

For this cause also anything that takes one "out of himself" has always been regarded by primitive peoples as something supernatural. This is why the Greks worshiped Bacchus and imagined the toxic effect of wine to be divine. And to this day men go to the bottle to get that semblance of uplift, to produce that illumination of the senses. A slang phrase suggests the truth of the matter, when it is said of a drunken man that he is "all lit up."

So the savage tribes everywhere have looked on insane persons as God's own, as sacred.

There is a great truth behind all these gropings. It is that the spirit of man craves something that will make it glow.

What we ask of you, poet, is to give us this. We care nothing about your word-juggling. Give us the luminous word.

What the child asks of the teacher is this; not facts and precepts, but that something that shall make the young mind burn.

What we ask of the preacher and prophet is not instruction; we know a deal now more than we can practice; but to make our souls "burn within us by the way."

What we ask of the novelist is not a clever plot nor perfect literature, but the torch, the electric shock.

The soul that glows does not live; it vegetates, as a cabbage. It is an apple with no flavor, a dinner of chemical compounds without savor, a drab rose, an odorless lily, bread without butter, potatoes without salt, an unlit candle.

There has been much said of Love, but the real reason why we make so much of it is that it makes life shine. It puts a halo on a common face, it makes drudgery divine, it touches poverty with a fairy wand and makes it alive and rich.

In a word, love has that thing for which all human creation is hungry and thirsty—glory.

If I were a god fairy I should ask no greater gift than to have some flower juice, as Puck had, to squeeze on mortal eyes, so that the common things on earth would gleam like things of heaven.

Captain Barnacle's Travelogues

BY JOHN H. WISHAR

"There was only once that I came near settling on shore, and on that occasion I got trimmed by a land shark, although I made a small fortune out of it before I got through," said Captain Barnacle, as he thoughtfully watched a real estate agent embarking on the liner ready to sail for foreign ports. "This happened after I came home in the bark Sarah Reynolds and had something like $11,000 to my credit. I thought then that I'd like to buy a ranch and settle ashore. So I got in touch with one of those real estate men and he showed me pictures of a beautiful valley just off the ocean that would be ideal for farming.

"Well, without seeing it I gave him $6,000 for the place, and got the deed. Then I went out. Do you know what I found? Why, that pirate had sold me a salt water lake! Yes, it was filled by the tide twice a day. But I'm not the kind to cry over spilt milk. What I wanted was my money's worth out of that place, and then I decided I'd go back to sea and stay there. But how to get it was the problem. Finally I decided I'd start a salmon hatchery.

"You know salmon eggs come in rolls, about ten thousand or so in a batch. Well, I got about a million of these eggs and planted them in the lake, and then I dammed up the entrance. After that I started to build a small cannery with what money I had left. It took all winter to build the cannery, but by spring it was completed, and the lake was alive with salmon. They were the big steel-head variety, the finest kind, and I calculated that I would make a fortune.

"But what does this land shark do but file a suit against me for the fish? He claimed that he had sold me the land and neither the water on it nor the fish in the water and he not only asked for the fish, but he sued me for damages for taking his property. Well, sir, those fish by that time had kind of got to know me, so I goes out and buys a small sloop. Then I knocks away the dam and sailed out throwing halibut eggs, which those salmon like; after me. They all trailed along after my sloop in a line about a mile long. I sailed up the coast to the Westminster canneries and then I made a dicker, offering the entire school of fish, delivered intact, for $18,000, which the canneries paid, as there was enough salmon there to supply them for an entire season.

"I got my money, but I had to skip out to the Orient, as that real estate buccaneer got out a warrant for my arrest charging me with grand larceny for stealing his property. That was the last time I ever attempted to do any business ashore. In future I'll stickto the sea."

The porcelain-topped basin with sensible spigots,
That squirt by themselves as the user compels;
For naught that is human but plumbers, or bigots,
Would purchase those faucets so dear to hotels—

Oh, where are the pleasures of manifold shaving?
All gone is the joy of a wash 'neath the tap;
Tonsorial bliss for an artist in laving,
Is scarcely attained with your hand on a snap.
Some thrifty provincials may put in the stopper—
(And filling the bowl, in a manner, excels),
New Yorkers will find it too slow to be proper,
So wasteful of time in the finest hotels—
With double-horned faucets, with patented faucets,
With little spring faucets they have in hotels.

Annoy me with slippery towels eternal!
Provoke me with tubs that are ever so small;
Discourage my spirit with wash-cloths infernal,
And maritime soap—I can suffer them all!
But lighten my soul from a load overbearing,
For none on this planet wherever he dwells,

Mr. Beck, who seconded the motion rejecting the suffrage bill in the House of Commons yesterday, said that the suff. outrages—his word, not ours—were not the unconsidered actions of poor women, but the deliberate policy of women of education and character, and to include them in the franchise would be to deal the death blow to parliamentary government. The suffs should let the anti-suffs talk; the antis' "arguments" are the greatest helps the Cause gets.

SHRINERS GET READY FOR START TO DALLAS

Special Train With About 200 Aboard Leaves Friday Night

Atlanta Shriners today are busy packing their duds to leave for Dallas.

That is, about 200 of them are, and the balance probably wish they were.

For there never breathed a Shriner with soul so dead that he didn't get restless when convention time rolled around.

At the last moment a bunch of them will succumb suddenly to the fever, drop everything, and hit the grit to the Southern railroad office to make Pullman reservations, so that when the train pulls out of the Terminal station Friday night there will be many aboard whose names did not appear on the list until the eleventh hour.

The Shriners are going after the 1914 convention for Atlanta—a fact of which the whole world by this time is probably aware. If there is anyone who doesn't know it, he will have been informed by the time the Atlanta Shriners arrive in Dallas.

They are going to take a running start halfway across the continent, and when they hit the Texas city they will make a noise that will reverberate to the far corners of the continent.

Of course they expect to get the convention. Everybody in Atlanta expects them to, and they couldn't very well feel otherwise. They know the big pilgrimage will wend its way to the southeast in 1914, since this practically has been decided already. Their job is to make Atlanta loom so large on the southeastern horizon that the imperial council can't see anything else when it looks this way. And they've got the wherewithal to do it. In fact, Atlanta looms so large, even now, that Memphis is sending up skyrockets to attract attention.

Memphis wants the convention herself. Having raised $60,000 in four weeks, to entertain the Shriners, she has convinced herself that she can hold a light to Atlanta, who raised $75,000 in one day.

But already the admission has come from Memphis that Atlanta says it's all over but the shouting. And somehow, when Atlanta says this, Memphis betrays symptoms of believing it is right.

Yaarab Temple, which is the name of the Shrine organization in Atlanta, will send four official representatives. They are Forrest Adair, potentate of the temple; W. A. Foster, John A. Hynds and Claude H. Hutcheson. The latter lives in Jonesboro.

Yaarab also will send her Arab patrol, a semi-military branch of the temple consisting, on this trip, of forty or more men, headed by their captain, J. O. Seamans.

And the Yaarab drum corps, organized by the temple for purposes of display and making a big noise on special occasions, will likewise go to Dallas. The drum corps men will wear red caps, red shirts, and white trousers. They expect to maintain a more or less continuous racket all the way from Georgia to Texas, and in Dallas they will shatter plate glass windows with their bugle blasts and rumbles.

In addition to these and along with them will go a large number of Shriners as independent delegates, making altogether a party of 200 or more.

They will have a special section of the train, consisting of a diner, several Pullman sleepers and a Pullman tourist car in which the drum corps will live.

The train leaves from the Terminal station at 10 o'clock Friday night, and is scheduled to arrive in Dallas at 5 o'clock Sunday morning.

THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.)

ATLANTA—The Girl from Out Yonder.

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.

BIJOU—Vaudeville and Pictures.

There are many pleasing and interesting features on the bill at the Forsyth. And there are some that have proven to be drawing cards of unusual interest. There is much comedy that is always so acceptable to ladies and children.

The headline feature is Gus Edwards' best production, "The Kid Kabaret," a combination made up of fifteen girls and boys who entertain for half an hour with new Edwards songs and original comedy ideas. Pretty Bells Story, the singing star, is conceded to be one of the best of the high class vocalists that have been heard here in Vaudeville. The bill for the coming week looks exceptionally good. It will be headed by Paul Dickey, the famous end of the University of Michigan football eleven. He is a splendid entertainer, and with a selected company will present "The Come Back," a college play that will have a special interest.

The Atlanta is drawing larger crowds this week than since the opening of the summer stock season and these crowds fill the theater with enthusiastic supporters. In "The Girl from Out Yonder," Miss Billy Long and her associates have scored a real triumph, and tears and laughter intermingle freely. Miss Agnes Tinsley Harrison, the local society girl, has made a fine impression, and tonight is to be society night in her honor. Saturday afternoon a 25 cents matinee will be given and indications point to every seat being sold.

Next week the company will present the first farce comedy of the season, in "Are You a Mason?" which has scored the biggest success of any play in stock this year in other cities. The play has many laughs, and in it all the members of the company are seen at excellent advantage. Two new experienced players will be seen in the cast and will lend much strength to it. Miss Harrison is also well cast. An extra matinee has been added for Monday afternoon. After this week matinees will be given regularly on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. Seats now are selling for "Are You a Mason?"

CONTRACTOR ARRESTED; SELF DEFENSE HIS PLEA

J. A. Winkles, a contractor, was arrested Tuesday night for stabbing Hal Hentz, an architect, Wednesday. His bond was fixed at $300. It was expected that he would furnish it during the day.

Winkles told the police that he stabbed Hentz in self-defence, and that he had made no attempt to flee. He had been going about his work as usual, he said.

Mr. Hentz who is at the Grady hospital, is not seriously hurt.

ELKS TO DANCE TUESDAY, TO INCREASE ORGAN FUND

A subscription dance, second in the series for the gathering of a fund to purchase a pipe organ for the lodge room, will be held Tuesday evening in the Elks' home on East Ellis street. All Elks and their ladies will be welcome. Tickets will be $1, with no charge for the ladies.

ENDEAVORERS TO RALLY AT NORTH AVE. CHURCH

Efficiency Campaign Will Be Discussed at Bi-Monthly Meeting Friday Night

The regular bimonthly rally of the United Societies of Christian Endeavor in Atlanta will take place at 8 o'clock Friday night at the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

Every society which is in active work in the city—and this means all of them—will strive to have its full roster of members present at the meeting, the purpose of which is to discuss ways and means of propagating the work of the order in Atlanta, the south and the world.

There are ten or twelve Christian Endeavor societies in Atlanta, among the more prominent being those of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, the First Christian church, the West End Presbyterian church, the West End Christian church, the First Presbyterian church, the Central Congregational church, and the Inman Park Presbyterian church.

A special discussion for Friday night's rally will be the efficiency campaign, the conclusion of which is fast approaching. This campaign started about two years ago. Its special object was to increase the power of Christian Endeavor. Each chapter was presented with twenty-eight standards of efficiency on it, ranging from one to one hundred. At the rallies, which are held every two months by the society, a banner is presented to the church having the highest standard of efficiency. This banner will be awarded Friday night.

The campaign will end July 1, when an award will be made to the society which has reached the highest standard of efficiency since the campaign started.

The work of the society in Georgia is rapidly making the state known as a center of activity for Christian Endeavor. At the Georgia state convention, held a short time ago at Waycross, executive officers were present from the United society in Boston, and they spoke of the growing interest and work of the society in Atlanta and throughout the state.

LITTLE GIRLS POINT WAY FOR OTHERS TO DO GOOD

Eight little misses of the north side are determined to make life's burden lighter for the poor sick little ones at the Grady hospital. Under the leadership of Miss Harriet Rhodes, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rhodes, they have organized the Junior Aid society of the children's ward of the Grady hospital.

Their first service was rendered this week when they delivered at the hospital toys and books that they had bought with money they earned. The eight workers gave an entertainment at the Rhodes home, charging 5 cents admission, and realized $2.60. With this sum the gifts were bought. They will continue their work during the summer.

The members of the club are Miss Harriet Rhodes, Miss Elizabeth Rhodes, Miss Sarah Smith, Misses Grace and Elizabeth Ogden, Miss Virginia Farrow, Miss Eleanor Gay and Miss Araminta Edwards.

Bride Says Groom Spoke to Her Only Before Witnesses

Just thirty days, and most of them were not happy ones, elapsed from the marriage ceremony which united Miss Ada Davis to Thomas Hort Garrett until the wife left her spouse. Now she has filed a suit for alimony.

Mrs. Garrett declares that she was married on March 1st of this year and separated from her husband on March 31. During their married life, she says, her husband forced her to live with his people, and after the first seven days he refused to speak with her except in the presence of some member of his family, she adds.

She was young and sick, she says, and despite the fact that her husband knew her condition she declares he treated her cruelly in many ways.

NEW MEMBERS ADDED TO RAILROAD Y. M. C. A.

The Railroad Young Men's Christian association thirty days' membership campaign comes to a close this Friday night at a big jollification meeting, which will be held in the rooms at 31 1-2 West Alabama street. Three teams have been hard at work and their labors have been rewarded with over 300 names of new members.

Three prizes will be awarded for the best work done in adding new names to the association's roster. The captain of the winning team will receive a gold watch; the next team a solid gold watch fob and the third team a gold seal ring.

So far the leaders have been J. W. Whitaker, yardmaster of the Southern railway; L. M. Hunter, fireman, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. oLuis railway, and W. T. Hamilton, yardmaster Atlanta Joint Terminals.

Refreshments will be served during the evening.

SIX WILL BE BAPTIZED AT WEST END CHURCH

Six converts of the recent revival conducted at the West End Christian church by Evangelist John T. Hawkins will receive the ordinance of baptism at the church Friday evening when a special service will be held for this purpose.

The success which the Rev. Mr. Hawkins has met in his work has resulted in an indefinite continuance of the revival services. He will preach Friday night on "Foreknowledge and Election," and on Sunday will have "The First Lord's Day" as his subject in the morning and "Salvation" at the night service.

ELKS JOIN SHRINERS IN BIDDING BIG MEET HERE

Hospitality, Entertainment and Courtesies of Home Are Extended Formally

The Atlanta Elks, too, are "boosting the game" of the local Shriners in that fight for the 1914 convention of the imperial council of the Shrine of North America.

By resolution adopted Thursday evening in the meeting of Atlanta lodge, No. 78, Exalted Ruler A. L. Dunn was authorized to address Potentate Forrest Adair with a cordial indorsement from the 1,200 or more Atlanta Elks upon the Shriners' convention that will be extended to the Shrine council in Dallas.

Nor did the Atlanta Elks stop there. They said in effect "If you find you need more money for entertainment when the big council gathers here, call on us."

Also they offered to the visiting Shriners all the courtesies of the well appointed Elks' home on East Ellis street.

The Elks' invitation is one of the numerous documents that the Atlanta Elks will carry to Dallas.

Twenty-Five Dollars Is the Hub Price of Men's Suits

Below that point and above, prices range because of a variance in the fabric used, or the style of the garment. Everything is by comparison.

The $15 Suit that we sell you is a much better one than you'd expect to buy at that price; and while the suit at $40 is an extra fine grade of material, you surely get a good one at the popular price of $25.

"Popular" means it's every man's price. Even though a man easily affords the one of higher price, he values the extraordinary quality of our $25 suits and buys one or two each season for good business wear.

That's clothing history, and the strong point of the extra care with which we supply our $25 suit stock with worthy suits.

With the same interest, fabrics and colors are chosen; and there are none better than the splendid grade of unfinished worsted used in these two suits of popular color---blue and gray.

Oxford Gray, three-piece conservative cut.

"The Way, The Truth and The Life."

Mansions in Heaven, Factories on Earth, And Certain Houses.

The night of His betrayal, Jesus said:

"Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me.

"In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

You believe, and yet are troubled.

His cross and love have made you dissatisfied with self and with what you see and hear.

Visions of a heavenly home for you cannot soothe you, so long as yonder hovels pour streams of children into Mammon's maw.

"They should be at play," you say.

Instead, factories and mills are marring their hearts and lives to make dividends for men.

Not this did Jesus mean, when He said:

"Suffer the little children to come unto Me."

And you would not—could not still the pity born of His spirit surging in your heart.

Rightly, you deny that woman's virtue depends on money.

But many families receiving less than a living wage must live within cheerless walls.

And this, you know—

When their girl is lost, fathers and mothers are not consoled by the thought that, had their wage been greater, they could have saved her from the colorless gloomy home which made her the more easily believe the luring lies of an easier way to live.

"Better had she died," you cry.

True! but you will not defend the hovel and the wage.

You recall:

"The day-spring from on high hath visited us.

"To give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet in the way of peace."

And so, when some misguided man says:

"Segregate a few women for the common good."

You answer:

"Who shall choose the victims?

"Since when did God give man the right to assign some to mansions in the skies and send others to lodgings in hell?"

You justly say:

"Have done with the lie that men being lower than beasts makes necessary the ruin of some women!"

Tven should a creature, like the "fabled Minataur" of Crete, more monster than man, appear, you will not talk of sacrificing girls for him.

Instead, you will lock up the brute.

Segregate him in a cell: that would be well.

The day has past for the making and selling of white slaves in our city.

God's pity for His children is opening your eyes and ears.

You will help your sister. Never again will you consent by silence to her destruction.

Heaven help the man who thinks you will.

You are awake.

"You believe in God."

EARLY ADVANCE IN COTTON MET BY RENEWED SELLING

Market in New York Closed Unchanged to 4 Points Lower Than Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 2 to 6 points on covering and a moderate demand. Private reports of rainfall in the western belt yesterday; heavier spot sales in the local stocks because of yesterday's large clearances, and the market was moderately active and firm after the call, with prices about 6 to 9 points net higher.

After showing a net advance of 8 to 10 points the market eased off slightly during the forenoon, resulting for over the week-end.

The market was easier in the afternoon with prices selling 2 or 3 points under yesterday's closing on the new crop months, owing to bearish week-end figures and scattering reports of showers or rain in the eastern belt.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 4 to 5 points on good covering and continued talk of rain in the eastern sections of the cottonbelt. Private cables messages from Liverpool stated that continental buyers appeared to be willing to take the new crop months at prevailing levels and that the tone of the remote months showed firmer prices there. The forecast predicted continued fair weather in the eastern belt, while it was considered very unfavorable. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 6 to 8 points over yesterday.

The market had a very good tone until after the middle of the morning on complaints of growth from the eastern cotton belt and rallies from prices that fluctuated within a narrow trading freely in that market during the afternoon. At the highest the trading months were 7 to 8 points up on the call, but reports of more settled extremely beneficial rains there recently caused short selling and stimulated profit taking among scalping longs with the result that at noon prices were 2 to 3 points under the last quotations of yesterday.

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Dispatch says: Needed good general rains have not yet fallen in the Atlantics, consequently the cotton crop is making rather unsatisfactory progress. Sonny Dunwoody says: The market has been somewhat unsettled by the early start heralded far and wide has been lost. Bulls now claims that the start has dropped behind the normal. Bears now claim that it is later than the normal. In any case, the burden of the proof, so far as the start is concerned, rests on the shoulders of the big crop people. This, of course, places the moderns in the position of current advantage, and they are making capital of it by exploiting many adverse reports from the fields, covering the necessity for replanting due to rotting seed and to cool nights. In all of which conditions the weather in the Atlantics is playing a mighty spectacular role.

It by no possibility follows that any of the ultimate outturn is to be curtailed by the loss of the early start. Replanted fields, executed by favorable weather, may offset up a monster yield. But every adverse development at the inception of the season is significant, and that must be liquidated by super-favorable conditions later on. Meanwhile the market is working along conservative lines, and the talent is keeping a close watch on the May position when the 5th falls due. Meanwhile this month will serve as a pretty safe guide to what is to happen in July. Speculation in cotton is the surest in May. New Orleans was covered by the bookers' line by the 1st of May, and is now up to the point where somebody would sell it on the hope of nothing a result.

Max Isaacs: Mostly northern bull bids and Atlantics, generally fair elsewhere; no rain of account in the southwest Texas. Some increased disposition to realize.

Absence of rains gave rise to good buying on the opening, spot people among the leaders, short interest covering to a record, some outside buying, brokers with southern connections. Spartanburg, S. C., wires: Several reports from Jones' summary: Tariff Bill, including provisions, for graduated income tax passed House by vote of 281 to 139. Vote to take up new currency bill about June 1. Attorney General McReynolds plans wider inquiry into New Haven affairs. Net earnings of Underwood Typewriter for first quarter estimated at about 000, against $501,000. Attorney general overruled by Southern Pacific argument that Central Pacific should pay interest on securities as continuous line, making it unimportant who pays. Cotton: Pacific stock market substantially declined 12; twenty active rails declined 13.

The failure to respond to the bearish news of the good news yesterday was due scincinally to the Texas Pacific-Southern Pacific incident. This is only local, however, and not at all the psychological moment it is probable that the selling of Southern Pacific by the Pacific stock. This would help the market. The short interest is large but see very little prospect of a material decline on account of announcement regarding the tangle of the lian-Houston lines is confirmed.—Potter.

Some traders declared that the report was being discounted by the recent decline of 5c. Many traders also on corn believe that there will be no great increase in acreage this week or four days or until after the corn planting is finished. Anything short of such weather will be reflected in deficient yield."

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Man shows generally favorable weather in the winter wheat States, little rains in Illinois and more or less in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. The Government figures have been discounted. As we have said, several continues we believe it will act as a check on any further decline in prices.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 9.—Map shows conditions as of yesterday morning, and the weather map shows that rains in the northwestern part of the cotton belt, warm weather generally, showery and cooler weather over entire eastern belt, and increasing unsettled weather in the southern half.

Liverpool opened in rather poor, but rallied in the last hour. Liverpool market will be closed tomorrow and Monday. Spots 2 points higher, also early. The feature on our side was the strength of July in New York, causing a corresponding advance in that position here and giving strength to the whole list. Absence of further rains in the eastern belt brought some covering demand from shorts. New York goods says that about 30,000 bales will be shipped out from the Atlantic ports, a record month during in July. Manchester reports no agents here show a radical change and are more distinctly bad. They say it is impossible to interest mills in offers of cotton, under declining and strike danger imminent. French ports declining 10 points today and London reports that the first pass meeting dissolved without accomplishing definite results, that the next meeting will take place until May 29, after the holidays, that the powers may occupy Albania, and that a joint force is under consideration. The market eased after the close of Liverpool and trading was of no pronounced character. The talk of dry weather in the east is looked upon as a means to promote a short scare on which idea there has been professional buying lately more than as a real danger to production.

Chattanooga, clear, pleasant; Tuscaloosa, cloudy, warm; Anniston, part cloudy, warm; Talladega, part cloudy; Meridian, Birmingham, part cloudy, pleasant; Huntsville, cloudy, warm; Memphis, clear, warm; New Orleans, clear, warm; Mississippi valley, part cloudy.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS FIRM AND HIGHER

Union Pacific, Beet Sugar, Ice, Reading, Bethlehem Steel and Car Foundry Led

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 9.—The volume of business was light at the opening of the market today with changes under New York Central leading, and active stocks started the day on a level with last night's close or slightly above. Canadian Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio were exceptions, the former receding a point and the latter 2½.

Eastern railroad stocks turned heavy. New York Central, Pennsylvania and New Haven making similar losses. Steels showed little movement. What little strength was evident elsewhere at the opening disappeared under this selling and many stocks fell to about half a point under yesterday's closing.

Failure of the market to respond to yesterday's generally favorable crop report encouraged bear traders today and when it became apparent after the opening that there was no support for the selling, further pressure was applied.

The forced selling was not large and when it became obvious that long stock was not being offered the market showed a steadier tendency. Efforts to cover sent on the list smartly early rallies before noon Reading, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific showing a point above yesterday's close. Weakness of certain stocks was based on developments specifically affecting those issues.

The talk of the financial requirements of New York Central and expectation of a large fall-ing off in the monthly tonnage figures of United States Steel influenced the course of these stocks.

Recessions followed the middle rise in prices, Reading, Union Pacific, Beet Sugar, Ice and American Telephone to 127¾, both low records, following some unprofessional selling. Rumors preferred broke nearly a point below the official announcement of the intended delay in acting on the dividend.

Business shrank to insignificant importance before the end of the hour and fluctuations of importance occurred.

Prices were less rigidly held in the closing hours. Bethlehem Steel, Reading and several others worked lower. Delaware and Hudson, Union Pacific and investment shares, which established new low records.

Closed weak.

One of the prettiest events of the week will be the Confederate tea to be given at Miss Hanna's school Friday afternoon, May 16, from 4 to 6 p. m.

A large number of invitations have been sent out to those eligible to membership.

The organization is the oldest branch of the Julia Jackson chapter, C. of C., the age limit being from fourteen to twenty, and their sole object will be to aid the younger branch in every possible way, with a view to increased membership and increased efficiency and interest in this important branch of Confederate work.

In addition to this, many pleasant social features will enliven the work. Young men who desire to assist are invited to join.

Pen and Brush Club

The Pen and Brush club will meet in the lecture room in the basement of Carnegie library, Saturday evening at 7:30.

A model will pose, and all those interested to join will find the club very enjoyable and helpful.

A large number attended the first meeting on last Saturday in the studio of Miss Virginia Woolley, but as more room is needed the club will meet in the library, beginning tomorrow, Saturday evening.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With The Othine Prescription

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Jacobs' Pharmacy under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

AMERICAN FASHIONS

By Lillian Young.

Everywhere one sees the colorful Persian and Bulgarian embroidery. No article of clothing seems to have escaped it. Dresses and coats reminiscent of the garb of the Balkan people have been adopted and their colorful embroideries done in crude blues, reds, and yellows are seen on coat collars and cuffs, in the broad sash girdles now in vogue, on blouses and even on petticoats, while there are any number of smaller dress accessories, such as bags, belts, collars and ribbons, that show the same influence.

An exceptionally good looking blouse of white voile is represented in the sketch, with some Bulgarian embroidered trimming done on either side of the front. The blouse is cut with wide sleeves in one with the body portion. The V-shaped neck formed by the crossing of the front edges runs down below the bust line and is finished with a flaunting tie of dull blue taffeta. A fold of the voile is set in along either side to fill in the neck. The fronts and back are joined with a shoulder seam running the entire length of the upper side of the sleeve and are slightly gathered to a rounded shoulder yoke.

The embroidered banding used for trimming is done in red and dull blue, and is set on, effecting simulated revers just below the yoke. The sleeves are three-quarter length and are finished with a row of small blue buttons and turned back cuffs of the voile.

Among the new shirtwaist materials are Shanghai crepe, the printed and embroidered cotton crepes, and the brocades and China crepes. They are all being made up on the plainest lines, but therein lies their only claim to simplicity, for they are elaborately trimmed with neck and sleeve ruffles of finely plaited batiste lace or chiffon and rows of crystal pearl and Dresden buttons.

Mrs. Speer to Entertain

Mrs. William A. Speer will entertain at cards Monday afternoon, her guests to include the sixteen members of her euchre club.

Mrs. Cobb's Luncheon

A beautiful event of the day was the luncheon at which Mrs. Hardin L. Cobbs entertained at the Piedmont Driving club, the affair being the second in a series at which she is entertaining her friends.

Luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock, Mrs. Cobbs making a charming hostess, receiving her guests in the living room at the club.

The tables were placed in the dining room, where palms and ferns and the bright flowers blooming in the window boxes made a delightful background for the small tables placed about the room.

Each table had a lovely decoration in tall vases filled with pink peonies and gladioli, the smaller tables being grouped about the central table, which was a beautiful picture, having in the center a great basket filled with pink peonies and gladioli, the tall handle being covered with Killarney roses and the lovely little gladioli. Smilax was used about the base and covered the table with a tracery of green, through which the silver bonbon dishes, filled with pink sweets, made another touch of lovely rose color.

Forty-eight guests were entertained.

To Miss Seabrook

Miss Frances Seabrook, of Maryland, was the guest of honor at the pleasantly informal bridge party with which Mr. and Mrs. William Buehler Seabrook entertained Thursday evening at their home on North Boulevard.

The house was adorned for the occasion with Paul Neyron roses and La France roses, and the veranda, where some of the tables were placed, was made most attractive by palms and ferns and the screen of vines which encloses it.

Miss Sturdivant won the high-score prize, a pretty embroidered collar and cuff set, and Miss Annie Lou Pagett received the second prize, a silver chatelaine pencil.

The first prize for the gentlemen, a silver pencil, was won by Mr. Palmer Johnson, and the other, a deck of cards, went to Mr. Preston Hill.

Those invited to meet Miss Seabrook were the Misses Sturdivant, Miss Annie Lou Pagett, Miss Nancy Hill Hopkins, Miss Louise Johnson, Miss Mary Blalock, Miss Jennie Sue Bell, Miss Laura Cowles, Miss Frances Connally, Miss Carolyn King, Miss Penelope Clarke, Miss Mary O'Brien, Mr. Palmer Johnson, Mr. Julian Murphey, Mr. Angus Perkerson, Mr. George Street, Mr. Joseph Burton, Mr. Gillespie, Mr. Ben Daniel, Mr. John Paschall, Mr. Paul Reid, Mr. Marion Harper, Mr. William Allen, Mr. Peter Hill, Mr. Edward Clarkson.

"Cream-of-tomato" is another tempting way to serve Campbell's Tomato Soup.

Heat separately an equal quantity of fresh milk, with a little cream in it if you prefer.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

Those friends are most your friends and best
Who prove it by the trouble test;
Who when old Trouble squeezes tight
Come to your side and help you fight.

That's the kind of a friend worth having and that's the kind of a friend Jimmy Skunk is. No sooner did he hear from Sammy Jay of how Unc' Billy Possum had been caught than he forgot all about how he had gotten into trouble himself the last time he visited Farmer Brown's dooryard. Yes, sir, he forgot all about that! Unc' Billy was in trouble and that was enough to make Jimmy Skunk forget about his own troubles.

Jimmy asked Sammy Jay all kinds of questions, but Sammy couldn't tell him much because, you know, Sammy didn't know a great deal about how Unc' Billy had been caught. All he knew was that Unc' Billy was a prisoner in a wire-covered box under the tree in Farmer Brown's dooryard.

"You go back there and ask Unc' Billy what kind of a trap he was caught in and where it was set. Tell him I'm coming up to see him tonight and I don't want to be caught, either, so you hurry and let me know what he says," said Jimmy.

So Sammy Jay ew back and told Jimmy Brown's dooryard and asked Unc' Billy just what Jimmy Skunk had told him to. Unc' Billy looked very foolish as he replied:

"Yo' tell Brer Skunk Ah was just caught napping. Yo' tell him that there are no traps and it was mah own foolishness that brought me here. Tell him Ah'll be right glad fo' to have him make me a call."

So Sammy Jay ew back and told Jimmy Skunk just what Unc' Billy had said. Jimmy made up his mind right away. He would go up there just as soon as it was dark and he was sure that no one in Farmer Brown's house was likely to come poking around in the dooryard. And that he just what he did do. He didn't waste any time. He crept past the little house of Bowser the Hound without waking him and went straight over to the tree in the dooryard. There under it were two wire covered boxes, just as Sammy Jay had said. Jimmy listened at the first one. Some one was asleep in that. Unc' Billy wouldn't be asleep in this hour, so it must be the baby Chuck. Jimmy hurried on to the second box.

"Unc' Billy!" he said in a loud whisper.

"Is that yo', Brer Skunk? Ah certainly am right glad to see yo'," said Unc' Billy.

Jimmy Skunk climbed up on the box and then Unc' Billy told him all about his troubles and how it happened that Farmer Brown's boy had found and caught him. Jimmy listened without saying a word until Unc' Billy was through. Then he asked:

"How do you think you're ever going to get out of this dreadful fix, Unc' Billy?"

Unc' Billy shook his head sadly. "Ah doan know, Brer Skunk," said he. "Ah doan know. Sometimes Ah almost wishes Ah was daid. Ah do!"

"I have an idea!" exclaimed Jimmy Skunk. But he wouldn't tell Unc' Billy what that idea was. He merely wished him good night, and then hurried away. The next day Jimmy Skunk called a meeting of all the little meadow and forest people to be held at sunset under the big hickory tree on the bank of the Smiling Pool.

THE EVENING STORY

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

Their First Home

IT WAS all over, yet enough excitement lingered in the very air to drive away sleep and quiet. The old couple, left alone in the back parlor, drew near to each other with that instinctive seeking of love which comes after many obstacles have been cleared away.

"I feel as if I hadn't had a chance to speak to your for a month," he said, as he put an arm around her plump shoulders.

"Why, pa, that's just the way I feel. Let's sit down here by the fire together. I can't go to bed yet. My sakes, I was never further from sleeping in my life. That salad—or something—seems to be sticking right in my throat."

"Ice the cream with me. I never did like the looks of lilies, and when I got one on my plate—but I did manage to eat a little bit of it out of decency. I wa'n't going to let a frozen lily beat me, not at Fanny's wedding anyhow."

"Fanny's wedding!" sighed the old woman. "Just a little while ago we were planning for it. And now it's over and by. And Fanny is gone."

"That's so," agreed the old man, soberly. He wheeled a couple of chairs to the fire, placed them side by side, and helped her into one. Then he took the other, carefully lifting his coat tails and pulling up his trousers to avoid creasing his new dress suit.

She, too, was just as concerned for her attire, settling herself with utmost regard for her new black satin.

"I can't spread this skirt any," she remarked. "It's too narrow. Do you know, James, I never realized until I put on this dress the difference there was between our young time and Fanny's? I wore a hoop when I was married."

"And a waterfall." His voice was eager with memory. "But you were mighty sweet."

"I looked a good deal like Fanny, I guess, except I was skinnier. She's never been able to get into my wedding dress. I got it out t'other day and confessed it with pers. How she laughed! 'Green poplin and velvet and quilling!' she said. And she turned her back on it for her white satin and lace. But somehow I stayed beside the old dress. It looked plenty nice enough to me." She drew a long breath of reminiscence. "I often wish now I'd kept the little black silk coat trimmed with guipure lace and bugles that I got to wear with it. I didn't have as many things Fanny's got. It made me fairly dizzy the other day counting her things as I packed them—a dozen of each kind right straight through, and mostly handwork at that."

"It made me dizzy when I paid the bill," chuckled. "All the same, I'm glad my girl could have them. She won't cost Richard anything for clothes this one while. He'll thank me for that."

"There isn't a girl in this town ever married who had more things or nicer," she reflected. "She's starting in pretty nearly where we'll leave off, pa—fumed oak for the dining room, mahogany for the living room, Circassian walnut for the den, and lace curtains that cost more than my wedding dress." She nestled closer to him. "Didn't you kind of live everything over again tonight when Fanny stood up there being married to Richard?"

"I did, Sally. It took me back to that day when old Parson Howe joined us for life. It was the prettiest kind of a spring day. I can shut my eyes and see how the sunshine came in through the open window on the rag carpet. Outside somewhere there was robin that sung all the time Parson Howe was saying the words over us. Between the robin and the pinksters, and holding your hand I kind of dreamed off, and the first thing I knew your mother was crying and your sister was laughing and your father was blowing his nose and the parson was calling you Mrs. Truesdell, and—you were mine!"

"I was yours," she repeated softly. "Oh, pa, I didn't know you remembered it all that way."

"But You Were Mighty Sweet."

"Don't you?" he asked, squeezing her hand.

"Yes." She squeezed back again. "And after everybody had kissed me and congratulated you we sat down and they brought in the supper. We ate it off plates held in our laps and I remember Mary Jane Wix upset hers all over her new buff cambric. I don't recall what we had to eat, but I presume there was fried chicken. Ma could fry chicken to beat any one I ever saw."

"She was a good cook," he agreed, "and you took after her. I remember how good that first dinner you got for me tasted; I went out and told Abe Springer all about it and he laughed. 'Wait till she burns the flapjacks some morning,' he said. But you never did."

"I made some mistakes, I guess, more than you ever knew about," she confessed. "Or, ma, either. I was pretty close mouthed for a young thing. On the whole, I guess I did as well as most of my age. There isn't much experience, or common sense, either, in an eighteen-year-old. They wait longer now. May Hawley was twenty-six and no one thought her old. And Fanny's crowding twenty-three."

The wood fire began to die down and he reached for the tongs. With the skill of a born fire tender he disturbed the sticks until they burst forth into fresh flame. With a final caressing pat of the big tongs he replaced them in the basket and settled comfortably back in his chair to watch the fire. Its glow reddened his fine old face and gave it a look like that of youth. It caught at the jets of her rich dress and shot silvery gleams from her beautiful hair and made the diamond brooch at her throat tremble like a star.

"The other day," she went on thoughtfully, "when I was over at Fanny's new house—bungalow, she calls it—looking around, I got to thinking about the way we started in housekeeping. Fanny's bungalow would have seemed like a palace to me then, but she isn't any more than just satisfied. She somehow lacks that feeling of contentment I had even as a young thing, although, as I say, young things haven't much sense. I guess there wasn't a happier creature than I was that day you took me home. I'd always had a home, of course, but this one seemed more real somehow, fuller of meaning. There were only four rooms—two up and two down. But I'd string the things your folks and mine gave me around so that they would take up as much space as possible. I remember how tickled I was when your mother gave me one of her blue ware tea sets. I used to leave the cupboard doors open on purpose so I could see them, and I handled them as if they were gold and silver. Oh, I was the proudest mortal! But there was one drawback—the wallpaper on the front room; I guess you never dreamed, pa, how I suffered on account of that wallpaper. You know we rented the house of Abe Springer, and I tried to get him to change it and he wouldn't. Then I asked you, and you said we couldn't afford to waste paper on a house we rented—it didn't look bad to you, you said. It was the nastiest dark brown paper, without much of any pattern, and light wallpapers were just coming in. One of the neighbors had just had some put on, and I was so taken with it that I dreamed about it. Seemed to me I couldn't endure that paper. It spoiled everything else in the room—my new carpet and the framed hair wreath and my nice new chairs and center table—everything. I determined to get rid of it somehow, and I did!"

The note of triumph in her voice

sold my black silk coat, trimmed with guipure lace and bugles."' Even now made him look at her curiously. "I the severity of that long ago sacrifice found reflection in her face. 'I sold it to Caroline Dodge when she came home a-visiting her folks. I showed it to her one day and she wanted it. So I let her have it for $5. I got my wallpaper. My, it was pretty—a faint cream background all run over with sprays of wild roses. You said it was all foolishness, but you liked it all the same. I let you think my folks had helped me to it, and let my folks think your folks had done it. Not that I lied; I just kept still and looked mysterious. But it took a lot of headwork. We were talking about that the other day, she and I. I guess she never knew till then what I did with that $5 she gave me. Well, she wore my coat out, and, as I said, I didn't have any clothes to spare. I went without a summer coat a good while, but I kind of enjoyed shivering on cool evenings when I went out, for I knew I had a pretty room to go back to. I always had some excuse ready when anybody asked me why I didn't wear my coat. And after a while everybody forgot about it. You did soonest of any, being a man. It's all been out of my mind a good many years till I got to talking to Caroline the other day. And tonight, somehow, it popped into my head again, and I thought I'd tell you. For I knew you'd remember that rose wallpaper."

"I do," he said, "for it made me feel so mean to think that I hadn't handed you out a couple of days' wages and let you get it before. You've kept it a secret a good while, Sally. Has it been the only secret you've kept from me?"

"The only one," she answered steadily.

TAG DAY

"Please, lady, could I have one for a dime?"

It was Tag day. The cry to passers-by was "Please buy a tag; please buy a tag." Many heeded, others passed by. Business of large import pressed them on. The cry didn't reach their ears or their hearts, or perhaps they didn't understand.

Suddenly the cry changed, for a tiny boy had stopped selling his newspapers; his business did not press him on. His cry was, "Please, lady, could I have one for a dime?" The lady listened. Why, yes, he could have one for a penny. His eyes filled. She didn't understand.

"No, lady; I wants one for a whole dime. My little sister died at the Sheltering Arms, and they were so good to her."

Won't you, too, be happy on Monday?—for it's Tag day.

The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

ONE day, when Mr. Jones returned with what his weekly toil had earned, he found his little wife in tears and mood not suited to her years. It seemed the cook had bade "adieu," likewise the washerwoman, too.

Gold Dust as Strike Breaker

At first within the House of Jones there followed sad despondent moans. No hopeful word could reconcile, no honied kiss inspire a smile. "I never knew before" said she, "how horrid household cares could be."

"Upon my word I'm up at six and working still as midnight ticks. I scrub and run and wash and shine to keep the little things in line, and yet around me here and there I see undone another share. I almost feel as if I'd like to join the other ones on Strike. Some morning try it—get a mop; go through from cellar to the top, and I will venture you must see, the greater burdens fall on me."

Now Mr. Jones was passing wise and later, sprang a glad surprise. Through friends who praised the "GOLD DUST WAY," he brought a package home one day.

From tears to sunshine, Wifey now has found the good of "Knowing How" and striking servants fail to stir, the placid calm content of her.

VIOLENT YOUTH ON WAY FROM JAIL TO ASYLUM

Earl Zuber's Sentence Commuted So That Family May Care for Him

With the understanding that the youth is to be held in jail and arraigned in the ordinary and tried for lunacy, Governor Brown Friday morning commuted the two-year sentence of Earl Zuber, the eighteen-year-old youth who recently committed an assault upon a spectator at the baseball park and who, when he was being led into police court for trial, savagely attacked George Cornett, the court bailiff.

Young Zuber was tried and convicted on two counts of assault and battery, and was given a year in each case. He is subject to fits of epilepsy, say members of his family, and, when in one of these fits, he becomes very violent. Both assaults were committed without provocation, and the baseball spectator suffered serious injuries, being struck about the head and face with a soda water tray. One of his ears was torn almost from his head.

Bailiff Cornett was more fortunate. The attack on him was quite unexpected, but a number of police officials present in the courtroom assisted him to overpower the frenzied youth.

POLICEMAN ON CYCLE RAMS A TROLLEY CAR

Motorcycle Policeman J. P. Born jammed his motorcycle into the rear of a street car early Friday morning, in order to keep from striking a pedestrian, and was thrown about thirty feet. He suffered no more than a few bruises and torn clothes, however.

Ocer Born was answering a burglary call about 7:30 o'clock and was riding behind a street car on Decatur street. He started to pass the street car between it and a wagon just as John Wallace, of East Point, started to jump off.

It was either strike Wallace or the car, and Officer Born chose the latter. One of the wheels grazed Wallace, however, but did not hurt him seriously.

G. M. A. CADETS IN CAMP PLAY HOST TO OFFICERS

The Georgia Military cadets, who are in camp at Lakewood, were hosts at a delightful outdoor dinner Thursday afternoon to the officers of the Fifth regiment, who made an inspection of the camp. The officers were more than pleased with what they saw, and did not hesitate to compliment the young soldiers on their up-to-date camp.

A dance took place later during the evening, and many former students were guests of the undergraduates. The dance lasted until 10 o'clock, when taps were sounded.

The program will be the folk songs of many countries; the classes have been preparing their songs for some time and are greatly interested in having their parents and friends approve of the result of their concert work.

William M. Slaton, superintendent of schools, will be in charge of the evening's program. Dr. Percy J. Starnes will be the accompanist. Miss Kate Harralson, the director of music of the schools, will conduct the chorus.

VISITOR HUNTS HISTORY, BUT ATLANTA HIDES IT

"You certainly should mark your points of historic interest somehow, before the last trace of them is obliterated and you yourselves can't find them," was the advice that a visitor from Iowa gave to The Journal, as Atlanta's representative, Friday. He is C. L. Butterfield, of R. F. D. No. 2, Wilton Junction, Iowa, here with his wife and a kodak, anxious to gather some impressions of the battlefields of Atlanta, but almost in despair of finding them.

"They are an asset that you are leaving absolutely idle," he continued. "Out my way we never are too busy to make the most of any little thing like this—and Atlanta is rich in it, but lets it waste."

Mr. Butterfield, typical representative of a class of visitors who visit Atlanta and the south in hundreds each year, knew much about the battle of Atlanta that the majority of Atlantians do not know nor care to learn. He had heard a couple of veterans of some Iowa regiment recounting their experiences in the battle of July 22, 1864, and he sought the position of their regiment.

Mortality From Colds Is Alarming

Thousands Died Last Year From Colds, Neglected Too Long

Practically every case of pneumonia was first, just a cold. During a hard winter in America, hundreds will neglect the simple cold, and succumb to grippe. A cold, permitted to settle and inflame, is the beginning of the Great White Plague itself, for which we are spending Millions of Dollars to find a cure.

Most colds are traceable directly to an inactive liver. You get overheated, cool off too suddenly and the pores close. The blood recedes from the surface and a congestion is produced. The same condition exists if you sit in a draft, or get wet. The liver finds its efforts overcome by pressure of the blood, and being unable to perform its function of cleansing away the waste, undigested food remains in stomach and intestines and ferments. The head gets hot, the feet cold and bowels constipated. Then cold sets in.

If JACOBS' LIVER SALT is taken immediately, it will ward off the cold. It relieves the congestion, rejuvenates the liver and sends the blood racing through the veins with a vigor that will instantly dispel the depressing attack of cold. A simple remedy, but worth its weight in gold if you value health. And it will not put you in bed.

Take JACOBS' LIVER SALT before breakfast, an agreeably bubbling drink, and in an hour you'll feel fine. The man who doesn't catch cold keeps his liver lively, and you will find no other liver tonic as good as the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT. All druggists, 25c. If yours cannot supply you upon receipt of price we will mail full size jar, postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(Advt.)

Georgia and Tech in First Game of Annual Baseball Series

GEORGIA LOOKS GOOD TO DOWN TECH BUNCH

If Red and Black Players Can Only Keep Up Hitting Stride There Is Nothing to It but the Shouting—Tech, However, Always Plays Best Ball of Year Against the Rivals From Athens—Second Game on Saturday

After months of talking and weeks of hard training the baseball teams representing the University of Georgia and Georgia School of Technology, in other words Georgia and Tech, are ready for the 1913 series. The first game is booked for today, Friday, with Athens, the home of the university, as the meeting place.

Undoubtedly the odds greatly favor Georgia to win. In practically every department the Red and Black nine has shown more than the Atlanta collegians. At hitting the Georgia team is the equal of most any major league outfit, while in Corley and Morris two good pitchers appear to have been developed. With good pitchers to hold down the opposition and hard hitters to put the runs over the plate for you, what could be asked?

With Tech it is just the opposite. None of the pitchers have shown any ability to keep the opposition from making a slew of runs, and but two of the hitters are over the .200 mark. Two hundred-hitting will never drive in enough runs to take a real good ball game, and Tech's only chance is to play better than they know how and take the Georgia boys by surprise.

There are just two important factors to be considered in the games between the Jackets and Red and Black. Georgia has been going at such a swift clip so long that the players are due a break down, while on the other hand Tech always plays better than ever in the big series with the Athens boys.

Now just whether these two features of play will come true in the games this year no one knows. Georgia is liable to keep up the great slugging right to the last, and then again it is equally as possible that it will quack all of a sudden. Take the Atlanta club for instance. Billy Smith's boys started off to hit the cover off the ball, and then for a couple of weeks could not hit for beans, with the result that many close games were dropped.

In the opening game Corley and Pitts will doubtless be the rival hurlers. Corley, of Georgia, has been going like a house afire for a first-year man and if Tech has him extra hard it will be the first bunch that has done so this year and he has faced some mighty good sluggers. On the other hand, Pitts has been even below his 1912 form and it will be an exception for him to do especially good work this late in the year.

Recent changes in the personnel of the Tech team worked much good for the clan of Heisman and is sure to have its effect. The players who were shutout of several games and then returned to the line-up are now playing a grand game and it will take some mighty good work to keep them from pulling many sensational plays.

Here is the way the Tech team is batting:

"TEX" RUSSELL PLEASED TO HURL AGAINST COBB, JACKSON, LAJOIE

"TEX" RUSSELL.

Great Left Hander Picked Up by Comiskey, of Chicago White Sox—Boy Looks to Be One of the Finds of Year

This big fellow, "Tex" Russell, is the one-man sensation of the American league this spring and he may prove the thirteen-inch gun of big league baseball before the world's championship days draw near.

Russell is one of Comiskey's White Sox. He is a recruit, having drifted from Bonham, Tex., to join the Sox when they were transcontinentalling it on the training trip.

To date Russell's bids for fame have been spectacularly successful. He came into the American league with no more fear in his heart for the head-liner sluggers than your Texan has for one of his neighbors across the Rio. He treats the Lajoies, Cobbs and Jacksons as if they had been merely given parts to fill the cast, instead of being the whole works.

Russell looks like a fit running mate for big Ed Walsh. He gives the promise of a Rube Waddell with sense, instead of "essensetricity."

Comiskey looks upon Russell as one of the finds of his career. The big southpaw made his bow on a big league diamond against Cleveland and he fanned the noted slugger, Joe Jackson, and also Olson in one round, caused Lajoie (also a batter of some reputation in these parts) to pop up a weak fly. In three rounds ten men faced Russell.

The only time he has gone the full route Russell let the St. Louis Browns down with two hits. He has tremendous speed—as much as Waddell in his palmiest days; as deceptive curves as any left-hander and, what is strange for a port-sider, his control is deadly.

Russell was sent against the hardest task it is possible to ask a pitcher to shoulder, in Detroit. With the bases full and Ty Cobb at bat, he was sent in to finish the game. He did. His first effort was a wild pitch, scoring Bush. Then he made Cobb hit a sick little bounder and tossed him out. The next two were called on the flies.

And, to make it better, he walked up to Manager Callahan a couple of days later and asked that he be permitted to work against the Tigers again. Callahan almost fell off the chair, because the number of pitchers in the American league who want to work against Cobb, Crawford & Co. are about as numerous as hen's teeth.

WON'T CHANGE HURLERS UNTIL NEW MEN SHOW

Chappelle and Furchner Have Both Joined Team and Are Ready to Take Turn on Slab—Rohe Not Showing Well as Utility—Team Within Limit—Bill Bailey Joins Club and Will Do the Pinch Hitting Work

Advices from Montgomery are to the effect that Manager Smith will thoroughly try out both Pitchers Al Furchner and Bill Chappelle, the latest additions to the staff, before he disposes of any other member of the team. Already he has turned Bausewein adrift and is within both salary and player limit as the team stands.

With the coming of warm weather the hurlers are going in grand style and will be hard to beat from now on. All along the Atlanta team has had good hurlers but the bad weather handicapped them in their work and for this reason they were able to show but little.

George Rohe, the utility player recently signed, has not been showing any special class. The main duty for a utility player is to do a bit of pinch hitting and this Rohe is not especially strong at. Bill Bailey, of the injured left fielder, joined the team in Montgomery on Thursday and will be used for pinch hitting until he is able to get back in the outfield at his stand in left.

Losing Streak Is Broken by Gilbert Price

Tommy Long and Wallace Smith Helped a Bit by Slamming Out Home Runs—Some Changes in Line Up Montgomery Club

MONTGOMERY, May 9.—Tired of always getting the small end of the score, the Crackers yesterday afternoon turned the tables and walked away with the Montgomery game by the score of 7 to 3. The Crackers took it out on the Billiken's new hurler, getting eleven hits off the new product. Southpaw Price did the main work for the Crackers, not only pitching a good game, but in the sixth with the score tied and two men on, he singled, two men scoring.

Long, the fleet outfielder, was the fielding star of the game, pulling down one on the left field bank that seemed impossible. He started to running with the crack of Gribben's bat and caught the ball as he was running forward. Long also got a single and a home run. "Wallop" Smith also got a home run smashing one to the club house.

Neither side scored in the first. Both teams took one apiece in the second and Montgomery took another in the third. Neither side scored again until the sixth, when the Crackers opened up the main runs and let the Billikens have a broadside that netted the Cracker boys five tallies. Welchonce opened the inning by batting one to left. Smith bunted and beat the throw to first for a hit. Bisland fouled out. Wares hit Rohe's high fly and the bases were filled. Welchonce scored on Dunn's sacrifice fly. Score tied. The other men advanced a base and it was then that Price, on his own game, sending a single to left and scoring two men. Long nailed the game to the mast by sending one to the scoreboard for the entire circuit. The Billikens scored their last run in the seventh, the Crackers taking another in the eighth.

Charley Stengel Making Hit in National by His Sensational Hitting

"Charley" Stengel is a hero in Brooklyn, and from Charles H. Ebbets, president of the baseball club, down to "Frankie," the cherub but boy, all are singing his praises today for his piece of making two home runs in successive appearances at bat and by his hitting defeating Boston in the initial game of the series by 4 to 2. Stengel crossed the plate twice, and on his second clout for the circuit drove Miller home from second base. The Superbas' center fielder has made four home runs this season in Ebbets field. His first one was made against the Yankees in the opening game. He smashed out another against the Giants last Saturday. In the eight National league games played at home Stengel has made eleven hits and is batting at a .344 clip.

As a fielder the onetime Montgomery player, of the Southern league, covers an immense amount of ground and is exceedingly graceful. His throwing arm is strong and accurate. He captured a fly off Devlin's bat in the second inning which had all the earmarks of a triple, going way over into Hummel's territory for the ball. If this youngster who had a trial last autumn and who batted .216 in seventeen games, keeps up his present clip, he is going to be the star outfielder of the season. He is also speedy on the paths and a daring base runner.—New York Telegram.

Princeton and Penn Guests at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 8.—The varsity crews of Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania were guests today of the Harvard Athletic association.

The race, among Harvard, Pennsylvania and Princeton, will be rowed at 5 p. m. Saturday when the Harvard-Cornell track meet is ended.

WOLGAST WILL FIGHT WITH JOHNNY DUNDEE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Ad Wolgast's manager replied today to a telegram from a Los Angeles fight promoter asking him if the former lightweight champion would meet Johnny Dundee, of New York, in a twenty-round bout 1 nthat city June 3. The manager said Ad would meet Dundee at catch weights.

Washington Crew May Enter Eastern Races

NEW YORK, May 9.—Recent reports that the University of Washington would send a crew east to appear at the Intercollegiate regatta in June at Poughkeepsie have not thus far been confirmed by the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing association.

No communication has been received from the University of Washington crew. Authorities and the stewards of the rowing association are withholding an invitation which had all the earmarks of a triple, going way over into Hummel's territory for the ball. If this youngster who had all the earmarks of a triple, going way over into Hummel's territory for the ball. If this youngster who has obtained last autumn and who batted .216 in seventeen games, keeps up his present clip, he is going to be the star outfielder of the season. Tech Summer School May Enter City League

The City league, for the past two seasons the strongest league in the city, will hold a meeting Friday night to adjust their schedule for the ensuing year.

Prof. Alexander, of the Tech Summer school, will be present and apply for a berth in the league.

It is desirable that all managers be present, as this will be the final meeting.

English Golfer Will Enter Tourney Here

NEW YORK, May 9.—According to cable advices from London, it is probable that Abe Mitchell, the well known British amateur golfer, will participate in the forthcoming American open amateur championship at Brookline, Mass., September 17 and 18. Mitchell, who is at a disadvantage, according to Phillip lish amateur championships last summer,

O'CONNOR IN FRAME DEAL

ST. LOUIS, May 9.—The St. Louis American club, in an answer filed in the circuit court today to the suit of Jack O'Connor, former manager of the local team, for $5,000 alleged to be due him, accuses O'Connor of unprofessional conduct.

The charges that in the double-header game between Cleveland and St. Louis here October 3, 1910, O'Connor instructed third baseman Corriden "to play so far back of his regular and ordinary position as to allow LaJoie to make base hits that otherwise he could not have made."

The ball club denies that it had a contract with O'Connor for the season 1913, as O'Connor claims, and insists that even if it had such a contract he had forfeited it by his conduct in the Lajoie matter.

STOVALL IS KEPT DOWN

CHICAGO, May 9.—George Stovall's suspension was not lifted as a result of his conference with President B. B. Johnson, of the American league, but Mr. Johnson will confer with directors of the St. Louis American soon and the question of a pardon for the manager will be discussed.

Stovall declared he was more than sorry for his attack on Umpire Ferguson.

HOLLIDAY WITH WAYCROSS; EXPECTED TO PROVE A STAR

Goat Holliday, ex-Tech star who was recently ruled out of S. I. A. A. ball for playing with a team outside of his home county last summer, has signed with the Waycross team in the Empire league and is now playing ball with that club.

Goat left for Waycross the early part of the week. After his ruling out several weeks ago, he received offers from professional teams, among them Macon, in the Southern league, and a number of clubs in the Empire and Georgia-Alabama leagues.

Wahoo, manager of the Waycross team, was hot after Holliday, and finally succeeded in landing him. The ex-Tech first-sacker should star in the Empire league, and it is no wild prediction to foretell that he will go higher before next season.

College ball loses a good man in Holliday. Now that he has definitely decided to enter professional ranks, there is no chance for him to play S. I. A. A. ball again.

While his Atlanta friends may deplore his loss from the Tech line-up, they can but hope that he will show 'em a few things down in Waycross.

RIDERS TO SEE MOTORDOME; TRACK ALMOST COMPLETED

Most every motorcycle rider in Atlanta will Sunday afternoon visit the new motordome on Jackson street. It is now almost completed and possible that many will be given a chance to test out the track by taking a spin or so round the quarter mile saucer.

Work on the track has been rushed and already the ground has been graded and right now the carpenters are busily engaged placing the uprights which will support the track. With this work out of the way the riders can go to work as the stands are being erected. The main work is now to get out of the way in the track, which will enable the riders to go to work right away and get in trim for the first race, which will be held on May 20.

So interested are the members of the local motor club in the track that the officers are making every effort to have the entire membership at the track on Sunday. It is expected that scores of race fans will also be on hand to take a look at the stadium which is to allow ninety miles an hour.

Harry Glenn, the local professional, is interested in the track and proposed to be right in the thick of the fray all the while. Though he has not ridden against the biggest in the game he is sure he can hold his own against the very best at any time. Ollie Roberts, a Birmingham rider, is also expected to make a good showing, as is Schenke, a Columbus, Ga., boy, who has entered the opening races.

Tennis Meet For 'Noogans

Planned to Hold Tennessee Championship at Lookout City

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 8.—The annual state tennis tournament will probably be held in Chattanooga June 24, instead of at Nashville, as was at first decided. Carlton Smith, of Atlanta, an officer of the Southern Lawn Tennis association, has been in communication with tennis enthusiasts here, and the general impression is that Chattanooga can secure the tourney if she desires. The majority of the members of the association favor Chattanooga, it is stated, because of its geographical location.

In case the tourney comes here the matches will be staged on the courts of the Chattanooga Golf and Country club, where the city matches are held each year. The tourney will be an open one, and entries are expected from Nashville, Memphis, Knoxville, Birmingham, Atlanta, New Orleans and other points.

Local tennis votaries are very anxious for the tournament, as it is believed that the stimulus which it will give the game here would result in the formation of a tennis club where this sport would be followed exclusively. At present the only courts are not available to the youngsters and the result has been that Chattanooga has turned out no cracks of southern prominence in years.

Postpone Big Bout

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 9.—The "Gunboat" Smith-Jess Willard twenty-round boxing contest, scheduled for the afternoon of May 17, was postponed until the night of May 20.

Balenti Stays With St. Louis

Neither Dobbs or Elberfeld Has Chance to Secure Indian Player

Mike Balenti will not wear a Chattanooga uniform this season, says President Andrews.

Manager Elberfeld found when he struck Montgomery, or rather thought he found that Allan Dobbs had been the only obstacle to a release by St. oLuis of the popular player to Chattanooga. Johnny was laboring under the same impression.

The Chattanooga manager held a conference with his old side-kick Monday, at which Johnny agreed to quit cherishing hopes of corraling Chief Mike, and to pass the wink to his friend Hedges to turn the Indian loose.

The wink was passed in the shape of a telegram from Elberfeld to the St. Louis management. President Andrews states that he received an answer from Hedges yesterday morning that Balenti was a member of the Browns for the entire season and that there was no chance of his dropping to a minor league club.

And so the hope exploded. Balenti is a badly wanted individual by Chattanooga at least. Manager Elberfeld wants his new player, whether infielder or outfielder, to be a hitter. Balenti would certainly have filled the bill. There are four men doing practically all the clubs hitting these days—Street, Coyle, King and Elberfeld. Add another hard hitter to this bunch, making five, and it would not be so essential to have hard hitters in right field, second or left, though at least one of the positions ought to furnish a slugger to make the club as formidable at the bat as it should be.—Chattanooga Times.

TO ARRANGE YACHT RACE

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 9.—The royal Ulster Yacht club has received a letter from Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge to a race with Shamrock IV for the America's cup, in which it is stated that the new York Yacht club since 1902 has made radical changes in its system of measurement and time allowance and that important changes also have been made in the racing rules. The letter continues:

"Your reference, therefore, to the regulations of the last contest as governing the present challenge leaves uncertain whether you mean a challenge for a match sailed with or without time allowance, and, if with time allowance, whether you propose it to be sailed under the New York Yacht club system of measurement and time allowance and under the racing regulations of 1902, which governed the last contest, but which are not in force at the present time."

The letter concludes by asking for information on these points, "as it is essential that our committee be informed of the specific nature of the match proposed before it can take any action on the challenge."

Sir Thomas Lipton said last night he had not yet received a copy of the letter which had been addressed by the New York Yacht club to the Royal *Ulster club, and on the spur of the mo-*ment was unable to answer the questions propounded. But he added:

"The New York Yacht club's committee, which has the matter in charge, is composed of thorough sportsmen and as anxious for a race as I am, and I haven't the slightest doubt that the points they raise will be settled to our mutual satisfaction and that the race will take place."

Shades of Keeler and Kelley and Sheckard,
Jennings, Kennedy, Dahlen and Jones—
Not to drag up an ancient record,
Not to rattle long vanished bones—
Shades of Casey and Dunn and Farrell,
Looming up with the rap again—
Hail to the clink in the Ebbetts' barrel—
Brooklyn's back on the map again.

Shades of Anderson and McGuire,
Daly, Hughes and the old time bunch—
Ghosts have risen in balldom's Tyre,
Here comes Nincvch with the bunch;
Who was it spoke of the Phœnix ashes—
Rising up in the gap again?
Here they come with the hits and smashes—
Brooklyn's back on the map again.

Chant ye Rugs to the Cubs and Giants,
Slip the Phillies a ringing cheer;
Howl your praise of the Pirates' science—
On with the Mackian chanticleer.
Then, torn loose from her ancient thraldom,
Here, where the ghost flags flap again,
One mad roar to the gods of balldom—
BROOKLYN'S BACK ON THE MAP AGAIN.

Not since the days when Kennedy, Kitson, McGinnity and Hughes, backed up by Farrell and McGuire, pitched Brooklyn into a pennant has the Dodgers ensemble assumed such proportions.

On that 1900 club—Brooklyn's last flag winner—Jennings worked at first; Daly and Demontreville at second; Dahlen at short and Lave Cross at third. In the outfield Sheckard, Kelley, Keeler and Fielder Jones—punk outfield, yes?—completed the machine.

That was Brooklyn's last stab and many barren years have intervened since. But for the first time in a long stretch the renowned, redoubtedable and re-incarnated C. Hurrah Ebbets has at last started back in the direction of his own.

Not that Brooklyn is claiming any pennant. But the old town across the Bridge is at least back in the frolic again with the best ball club she has shown in a decade. No one is picking Brooklyn as a spot upon which to light and if Colonel Dahlen can only keep his material keyed to the proper notch the once lowly Dodgers will up there with the select set all the year.

He has the people now to make a fight of it. He has the pitching and the speed—a good infield and one of the best outfields in the game. If he can only induce his people to forget the habit of several seasons ast and kep moving he should finish in the first division at least.

No, we haven't forgotten that this is only May. The Dodgers look like a regular ball club and the stuff is there to battle along with the winning field all the way provided the psychological upset doesn't arrive and disperse the talent.

Stovall's case is one of which the ball Players' Union can have no hand. A manager guilty of his erformance is entitled the roughest penal the league president can bestow.

The last time Chance was in Detroit he was at the head of the 1908 Cubs. O tempora. O Mortuis "them was the good old days."

They say Joe Lake is a better golfer than Bender. Maybe. But any time they meet we'll take the Chief at a ball a hole, letting the chip shots fall where they may.

Not to forget that the Cardinals, picked to finish between seventh and eighth place, are another set of delegates who refuse to yield to the pre-season dope. Hasn't Mr. Huggins any respect for the expert opinions of March and early April?

Will some one lease answr this: When a ball layer refuses to accept offered terms he isn't allowed to play with his club unsigned by the rules of the league. Then what right has a league or a commission to fine him 50 cents for not reporting? On second thought we won't wait for the answer. There's only one reply—no right except the right of thirst which clamors to be quenched. There could be no greater joke upon justice, and the same is one of many other things which will soon get the magnates or the commission in a good bit worse than the ball players can ever with those who pay the tax at the gate.

Trendall Wins Bout

ST. LOUIS, May 9.—Harry Trendall, of St. Louis, last night was given the decision over Leach Cross, of New York lightweight, after eight rounds of snappy fighting. The New Yorker did most of the leading.

Trendall made his best showing in the last two rounds, in which he forced Cross around the ring with right and left swings.

Again Elberton Wins

ELBERTON, Ga., May 9.—The Elberton High school defeated Greenwood High school here by the score of 13 to 5. Smith, of Elberton High school, pitched superb ball all the time, and deserved a shut out game. Smith, L. Taylor Harper got four hits each out of as many trips to the pan. The Elberton High school is the heaviest hitting team in this section.

Highest Class Of Race Horse

Wad of Money Put Aside to Keep Only the Best Racers in United States

NEW YORK, May 9.—Subscriptions aggregating $125,000 were announced by the Jockey club last night for the purpose of promoting racing and the thoroughbred horse in the United States. The fund has been named the "Replenishment Subscription," and is to be used in part to buy yearlings in the English and French sales rings to make up the depletion of thoroughbreds in recent years because of the exportations and the disposal of the great breeding establishments in this country.

A committee of experts on breeding and individuality will attend the July sales at New Market, England, when a party of the yearlings will be purchased. After arrival in America, the yearlings will be awarded to subscribers by lot.

Another part of the subscription is to be subscribed later as added money to stakes and purses, such races to be arranged and programs to the best advantage to and for subscribers. These races will be for two-year-old colts and fillies, for three-year-olds, four-year-olds and for steeplechasers, and a race, or races, over a cup distance, or for the full steeplechase course, with selling conditions that any of the starters may be claimed for $2,000 and donated to the United States government for breeding purposes. A list of the subscribers will be announced later.

Jones Wins Shoot

AMERICUS, Ga., May 9.—The annual tournament of the Georgia State Gun club ended Thursday, the high average championship being won by Henry Jones, of Macon, with 385 targets out of a possible 400. James Barrett, of Augusta, won the state championship. The trophy in the professional class went to Homer Clark, of Allendale, Ill. The double target amateur championship of the south was won by Messrs. J. K. Warren, of Birmingham, and Eubanks, of Atlanta.

GOOD ATHLETES DEVELOPED IN EMORY CLASS CONTESST

OXFORD, Ga., May 9.—All the baseball world that has ever heard of Emory college and her system of interclass athletics, are prone to think that the article of baseball dispensed here does not compare favorably with some of the backyard stunts in the village and crossroads, and especially with some of the southern colleges who participate in intercollegiate athletics.

There are four teams in the race, with the freshmen leading by a good margin. One pitcher is Perryman, who is thought of so well in baseball circles that he will report to McGraw's New York Giants after his graduation in June. The other pitchers are Merritt, of Greensboro, with the freshies; Lester, of Cochran, with the juniors; Porter, of Texas, and Summers, of Conyers, with the sophomores. These latter pitchers have made good records in amateur baseball, and one was even offered a contract with a Southern league team for this season. So, don't fear for Emory if she is ever allowed to participate in intercollegiate baseball, and other things, too.

Some of batters over the .300 mark have the following averages:

	A.B.	R.	H.	S.H.	Pct.
Stokes, soph.	19	4	8	0	.421
Levie, soph.	18	3	6	1	.333
Cheshire, soph.	18	0	6	0	.333
Summers, soph.	15	0	5	0	.333
Outler, junior.	16	2	5	1	.313
Bondurant, fresh.	23	4	7	0	.304

Two team averages in the swatting line are sophomores, .257; freshmen, .228; seniors, .172; juniors, .122.

New Records Are Tried For

ITHACA, N. Y., May 9.—A. S. Robinson, the Mercersburg academy sprinter, is to try for the world's records in the 100 and 220-yard dashes at the Cornell interscholastic meet here tomorrow. Upon request from Mercersburg the Cornell athletic management has appointed as official timers men who are expert and who will be recognized by the Amateur Athletic union, in case young Robinson succeeds in making a new mark.

Jordan Stars; Valdosta Wins

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 9.—Valdosta defeated Cordele here Thursday, by the sore of 9 to 8. The game was replete with hits, runs and errors. Filling for Cordele outpitched Tillman, for Valdosta, except in the pinches where Tillman bested his opponent. With the bases full in the fourth, and no outs, Tillman fanned the first batter up and let the next two down on easy outs. Jordan was in the game at second for Valdosta and played a beautiful game in the field at bat and on the paths.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Valdosta ....050 020 011—9 19 5
Cordele ....202 020 000—3 11 8
Batteries: Tillman and Pierre; Fillingin and Eubanks. Umpire, McLaughlin.

Dillon Training

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 9.—Jack Dillon, of Indianapolis, today began training for his bout here on May 29 with Frank Klaus, and will continue the work until two days before the fight. Since his victory over Bob Moha at Milwaukee the local fighter has been taking only light practice.

Pres. Johnson To Probe Fight

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 9.—President Johnson, of the American league, last night ordered an investigation of the fist fight between players of the Boston and Cleveland clubs at Cleveland on Wednesday afternoon. He sent a message of inquiry to Umpire Connelly, who replied that he knew nothing about the occurrence, except that he had read in the newspapers.

At the invitation of President Comisky, of the Chicago Americans, Mr. Johnson has promised to accompany the White Sox and the New York Nationals on their world tour next winter.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

The History of Two Farms--One a Live Stock, and the Other a Cotton Farm

RECENTLY it has been my pleasure to visit two farms that were purchased about thirteen years ago by two different men, both costing practically the same amount of money and both of them being practically the same class of land at the time of purchase. A close observation of these two farms has thoroughly convinced me and I will convince any one who can see these object lessons what will bring forth at the end of thirteen years to any man who will stick to either of the two objects that these men had in view.

For instance, one of the farms was started out as a cotton farm and it has been planted practically continually to cotton more or less for the past thirteen years. You, of course, can imagine what condition the land on this place is in today. It is now renting for $500 per year, including two mules, all of the farm implements, etc. There are four head of stock on this place. No corn and no ruffage and all of the feed and supplies for the operations and tenants being bought from merchants, and a great supply of fertilizer being bought this year and having been bought every year. Some seventy-five acres was in pasture and scarcely enough grass in the pasture to supply ten head of yearlings, they being in very poor condition. Naturally the poor animals that were preparing and planting the crop, having to be fed on bought feed, were not given a sufficient quantity; therefore, did not have the strength to do any plowing and heavy work in preparing the land as it should be. They were being fed on what is called J. D. feed, which is composed of 60 per cent ground alfalfa, 20 per cent ground corn, 10 per cent oats, 5 per cent molasses and 5 per cent cotton seed meal, at a cost of $32 per ton.

About five acres of this land, the poorest land on the place, was planted in oats. It will scarcely produce the seed that were used in planting. Ten to fifteen acres of the next poorest land was planted in corn, and under the most favorable conditions it can not produce more than twenty-five bushels per acre with the best of fertilizer. The best of the place, about sixty acres, was being prepared and planted in cotton, and had been in cotton year after year continuously for many years, the land showing the want of vegetable matter and humus sufficient to make much more than one-third of a bale of cotton on one acre, at the best. One who has had any experience in farming can figure for themselves what can be expected at the end of the year under the most favorable circumstances and readily see what will be left for the four negroes who are making the crop and the land owner who is to share his part of the income.

The other farm, while located even a greater distance from market, and nearly three times as far from the city of Atlanta, was practically the same class of land, possibly not quite so good. I found on this place a large three-story barn, two large silos, one of them at present well filled with ensilage. There were eight to ten horses and mules on this place, every one fat and slick and competent to do a hard day's work; two magnificent colts, one of them ready for work, three years old and weighing between 1,100 and 1,200 pounds. I had an occasion to look in the troughs the next morning after the animals were out of the stables and in nearly every trough there was some corn left, also more or less alilfalfa hay that was raised on the farm.

It was also my pleasure to see fifty-two head of milch cows fed in this barn, night and morning, and not more than $2 worth of cotton seed meal was used for the two feeds mixed with a bountiful supply of ensilage and alfalfa hay, which had been raised on the farm. From these fifty-two cows about 160 gallons of milk was carried from the barn to the dairy during the night and morning. This milk was converted into cream mostly and some fifty-odd dollars' worth of cream shipped to Atlanta on the early morning train. Every one of these fifty-two cows was raised on this place, with food that was raised on the place except the cotton seed meal.

About thirty splendid yearling heifers that will be fresh this fall were in one large pasture, and about the same number of last fall's calves were in a nearby lot, being fed on the skim milk produced from the cream from the cows. Not one of these calves but what was in firstclass condition for strictly firstclass veal and most of them as large as many eight to twelve-months-old calves that are ordinarily seen on the average farm.

Near the barn could be seen thirty-two pens of hogs as fine as can be found anywhere in the United States, one field having just been cut the day before. In addition to this many acres of oats and wheat, showing the effects of cow manure, a large number of acres of corn having already been planted and many other acres being prepared for ensilage corn, which would be planted in May.

Everything looked prosperous and flourishing around this farm. Eight men were employed, besides the owner of the place, who was "boss," and shows he knows his business. He is a city-raised man, but had gone to the country for his health. Today this farm, the result of the gradual accumulation during the thirteen years would easily sell for $50,000, and the man who bought it would certainly have a bargain, as I am confident the net income per year off of this place is not less than $8,000 to $10,000.

These two object lessons are ones that it is a pity but that many people could see, and they show conclusively what can be done to a man, even in a small way, who will start out on his farm with a purpose of raising his own food supplies and live stock for his main dependence for cash, and the other man who will depend on cotton to buy his surplus and depned on cotton to bring him in his cash money. This is one of the great drawbacks of our southern states today and the sooner our people can take a different view will be in years to come the better off will our country be. Hundreds of acres of land are poorer now than they were years ago and the younger generation that are coming up on the farms are leaving home simply because their forefathers have gotten practically all there was in the soil out and have left nothing for the younger generation to start out with. There are a few, and they are very few, who are changing their methods, but the sooner it is done the better off will our country be. Live stock and food products will redeem the farms of Georgia and make them garden spots, and make wealth and happiness for every farmer who will stick to this. But, the continued cotton farming operations are sure to bring disaster and unhappiness to the people who continue to stick to them.

These are two farms that I only wish thousands of people could have the opportunity of studying and they would be sufficient evidence to make any man on earth change and get on the right road to prosperity.

Yours very truly,

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.
Fairburn, Ga.

I very carefully cut out your directions for caring for young turkeys, but in some way they have been misplaced. Would you kindly send me these.

I have twenty-five young turkeys, the oldest ten days old, and am at a loss to know how to feed them now. So far have used the boiled custard, then the curd, boiled eggs and meal, also oatmeal, and they have done to perfection. Now I suppose they should have a change of food.

Thanking you for the favor, I am
MRS. W. T. R.

ANSWER.
It would be impossible for me to find these instructions, as I do not keep copies of them.

You have brought your turkeys up right to this stage, and the feed should be changed now to cracked wheat, cracked rice with plenty green food, and they should be allowed to have their liberty, so that they can get bugs and worms. They will almost make a living for themselves now with one good feed per day of either whole or cracked corn, with a little cracked rice added.

QUESTION.
Thomasville, Ga.

I have five White Leghorn pullets and a cockerel, seven Buff Orpington pullets and a cock. They have a scale forming on their legs. I would thank you many times for a remedy for it. I want to put my Leghorns in the county fair this year, and want to have them in good shape.

Please give me a very prompt answer.
MRS. A. N.

ANSWER.
A mixture of lard, sulphur and kerosene will correct the trouble referred to if applied about three times. Then take warm water and a nail brush, and the substance can be removed. It will take several weeks to complete this work.

OPPORTUNITY

PRESENTS itself, possibly, but once in a lifetime. Many home seekers have availed themselves of the privileges offered and bought in FORTIFIED HILLS.

We believe that such inducements and privileges will never be offered again in any HOME PARK.

We know the prices and terms are within reach of nearly every one—a small cash payment and six or seven years for the remainder. We are not offering to the public a big LAND SCHEME. We are selling homes and home sites in a place where several hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent to make the surroundings beautiful and comfortable.

We are offering the unsold Home Sites in Blocks 20 to 36 inclusive. All this immediate section is surrounded by homes and bungalows. A great place for a man after a hard day's work.

It will take you just a few minutes to verify every one of our claims—a ten-minute ride on the Decatur Car Line, at Markietta and Forsyth streets—Fortified Hills—the big stone entrances to the streets—acres—flowers—trees—NATURE.

Call at our office for a plat. Capt. Mills, at the park's office, on the grounds, will assist you.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Building Value So Far in May Aggregates Over $400,000. New Building for Whitehall–Greenwood Avenue, Euclid Avenue, Piedmont Drive, Druid Hills, and Foundry Street Sales–Raoul Estate Offers Lots–Lease Activity

Already the value of building permits since the first of the month aggregate over $400,000, which contrasts with over $700,000 for the whole month last year.

It looks as if the May record this year would equal if not surpass last May's. Since the first a permit has been granted for the new Y. M. C. A. to cost $250,000; another for an apartment house on North avenue and Willow street, cost $60,000, and a third for an Asbury Park apartment house to cost $25,000.

NEW WHITEHALL BUILDING.

John W. Grant is planning a three-story building on the property he owns on Whitehall street just a few doors north of Mitchell street.

This building will replace the present two-story structure and will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000.

REAL ESTATE SALES.

More bonds for title went to record Thursday than for some time, and a good many medium-sized transactions were announced by agents on Friday.

Eugene S. Kelly has bought through the Charles P. Glover Realty company a tract on Greenwood avenue between Highland avenue and the Brown's mill road. The consideration was $11,500.

This tract has a frontage of 305 feet and a depth of 169 feet. Mr. Kelly bought for investment, and will probably subdivide the tract into lots.

RESIDENCE SALE.

The Burdett Realty company has sold for J. T. Stewart to Judge David W. Meadow, of Elberton, No. 354 Euclid avenue, a two-story residence on a lot 50x145, east Euclid avenue. The consideration was $8,500. Mr. Stewart taking as part payment a vacant lot 54x200 on the east side of Euclid avenue, 54 feet north of Bigham street, valued at $2,000.

PIEDMONT DRIVE SALE.

The same agency sold for Mrs. Ida A. Cameron to Dr. Adair lot 7 of the almshouse property, on Piedmont drive, between the Peachtree and Rockwell roads, for $8,000. The lot is 200x800.

DRUID HILLS SALE.

The cofield Investment company, through J. M. Beasley, has sold for Mrs. Edgar Dunlap to A. Fiurazzi the northwest corner of Fairview road and Oakdale road, in Druid Hills, for $7,500. The lot is 200x570. The purchaser will erect a home with a residence.

FOUNDRY STREET SALE.

J. H. Ewing, of the J. R. Smith and J. H. Ewing agency, has sold for L. M. Anderson to Mrs. Bertha Kline a parcel on Foundry street, 40x100, between Elliott and Mangum streets, for $2,250.

RAOUL ESTATE LOTS.

Forrest and George Adair have been appointed by the Raoul estate as its agents to offer ten lots on Piedmont avenue, facing Piedmont park.

These lots vary from 69 to 79 feet frontage and are between Twelfth and Fourteenth streets, one lot being north of Fourteenth.

RENTING ACTIVITY.

Renting agents continue to report a dearth of good renting houses. Outlying stores, of which a great many have been built in the past year or two, are quiet, although there is some activity in them on main thoroughfares.

Men who specialize on leases report an unusual activity, although, awhile back, when sales were so active, their lease business was not so good.

A good many concerns are looking around for locations in semi-central territory, and several negotiations are on for business buildings.

TARIFF BILL IN SENATE COMMITTEE ON FINANCE

Democratic Sub-Committee Is Ready to Report on Various Provisions of the Bill

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Underwood tariff bill, proclaimed by the Democratic party as the answer to its platform pledge to revise the tariff downward, was passed by the house last night. The vote was 281 to 139, five Democrats voting against the bill and two Republicans voting for it. Four progressives supported the bill and fourteen opposed it, while one independent progressive joined with the majority.

When Speaker Clark announced the vote in loud tones that revealed his satisfaction in the arrival of the day he long had sought, exuberant Democrats hoisted a stuffed Democratic donkey over the heads of their colleagues in the rear of the chamber, a faint ripple of applause followed, and the gavel fell on the first chapter in the history of President Wilson's extra session of congress.

With the bill, after a month's consideration, on its way to the senate, there was a rush of representatives for their homes. In the house adjournment will be taken three days at a time, beginning next week, until June 1. In the meantime the senate finance committee will study the bill, while the house ways and means committee will organize committees preparatory to the transaction of business next month.

Republicans and progressives, led respectively by Representatives Mann and Murdock, protested to the last against the measure, the lowest tariff bill ever written, and proclaiming, as the Democratic avalanche bowled them over, the virtues of different tariff commission plans.

Republicans who voted for the bill were Cary and Stafford, of Wisconsin.

Democrats who opposed it were Broussard, Dupre, Lazaro and Morgan, of Louisiana, on account of the schedule reducing sugar 25 per cent and sending it to the free list in three years, and C. B. Smith, of New York.

Progressives who voted for the bill were Kelley and Rupley, of Pennsylvania; Nolan, of California, and Bryan, of Washington. Kent, of California, formerly a Republican, but now an independent progressive, also voted for the bill.

Progressive Leader Murdock and thirteen of his progressive followers voted with the minority. Representative Corley, a progressive, did not vote, answering "present" to his name.

WAITER SHOOTS COOK IN FIGHT ON PULLMAN

Passengers Thrown Into Panic as Pennsylvania Train Pulls Out

(By Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 9.—As a Pennsylvania railroad train bound for St. Louis pulled out of the North Philadelphia station last night, passengers in the dining car were thrown into a panic when Vaudergrift Thomas, a waiter, shot John E. Dyer, the cook attached to the car.

Two shots were fired, and one took effect in Dyer's leg. As he fell Thomas brushed past excited passengers, revolver in hand and jumped from the train. The conductor signalled the engineer to stop and Dyer was sent to a hospital. An hour later Thomas was arrested while boarding a train for Washington at the West Philadelphia station. He was held under $1,000 bail for a hearing today. According to the police the shooting was the result of a quarrel.

material from Dr. Friedmann for its investigation.

On the whole, Dr. Friedmann's reluctance to furnish certain details, "were not satisfactory from a scientific standpoint," but the report says, "in view of the great importance of the matter to tuberculosis patients throughout the country and in the hope that a valuable remedy might have at last been found to not only cure tuberculosis patients but to prevent the disease, the conditions imposed by Dr. Friedmann were accepted. An additional reason for taking advantage of opportunities to make every study possible was the assurance by Dr. Friedmann of its harmlessness when injected into human beings.

FRIEDMANN'S CONDITION.

One of the conditions imposed by Dr. Friedmann, according to the report, was that he would furnish detailed information of the methods of preparing his remedy when the public health board recognized favorable results in patients.

The board found that under all the conditions imposed it would have opportunity only to study a culture of the bacteria said to be used in some way by Dr. Friedmann in the preparation of his treatment, to test its pathogenicity on the lower animals and observe the effect of treatment by him of tuberculosis patients with his finished remedy. These limitations, the investigators found unsatisfactory from the scientific standpoint.

The report is careful to say that Friedmann's reticence has in no way been allowed to interfere with the judgment of the board of the effects which it has observed.

The government investigation is not finished as the tests being conducted in the hygienic laboratory here and the observations of the persons inoculated will be continued.

Immediately after presentation of the public health service report, a resolution was unanimously adopted declaring it to be the judgment of the association that "no specific cure for tuberculosis had yet been discovered to warrant the confidence of the public or the medical profession."

The resolution recommended to all that present methods of treatment be continued. Dr. Friedmann was not mentioned by name in the resolution.

The association adopted a resolution recommending that the house of representatives which now has no committee on public health, appoint such a one.

Twelve new directors, six laymen and six doctors, were elected to fill vacancies.

Among them were:

Miss Julia Lathrop, head of the children's bureau of the department of labor; Dr. Charles P. Neill, of the bureau of land statistics, and Watoon S. Rankan, Raleigh, N. C.

NEW YORK POLICE ARE GIVEN HEAVY SENTENCES

Convicted Inspectors Get Maximum Sentence for Conspiracy to Obstruct Justice

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Dennis Sweeney, John J. Murtha, James E. Hussey and James F. Thompson, former police inspectors, convicted of conspiring to obstruct justice to check graft revelations involving them, were sentenced today to serve one year in the penitentiary and pay a fine of $500 each. This is the maximum sentence.

Up to the moment that sentence was pronounced the belief prevailed that one of the four would "squeal to the district attorney or the man higher up."

It is not yet too late for one of the inspectors to save himself by an eleventh-hour statement.

No move of any sort looking to an appeal was taken by any of the four prisoners today. An effective club against appeal is held by the district attorney in the form of nineteen indictments for bribery—a felony—recently returned against the quartet.

The crime for which the four inspectors—highest uniformed officials in the department—were convicted was brought to light by the district attorney in his crusade against graft in the police department, begun after the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

George A. Sipp, a resort keeper, told Mr. Whitman that he paid regular protection money to collectors acting for Sweeney. When it came time for Sipp to testify before the grand jury he had fled.

He was found at Atlantic City, brought back to New York and testified that Sweeney and his three confederates had raised a fund and hired him to remain out of the state.

Investigation Just Begun Says Detective Lanford

General satisfaction was expressed Friday morning by the detectives working on the Phagan case at the action of the coroner's jury.

Chief of Detectives Lanford, however, declares that the work of his department is just now getting under way.

"We are going to continue right on with the investigation," said the officials, "and try to dig down to the truth of this matter.

"We have a theory as to who committed the crime, but we are ready to change it if we can possibly unearth any evidence, which will prove that theory wrong. We are going to make an impartial investigation and we are not going to leave anything undone, which might tend towards the solution of the mystery.

"My men will not be so pushed for time now and they can make systematic and deliberate investigation of every point of importance in the case, and they have much hard work before them. Even if nothing new develops, we have enough work outlined on the case to keep half a dozen men busy for the next week."

Detectives Campbell, Starens, Black, Bullard and Bass Rosser, who have been working on the case, are still detailed to the investigation.

HOUSE BEGINS TRIAL OF MILLIONAIRE GLOVER

Charged With Contempt for Striking Congressman Sims of Tennessee

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The house met an hour early than usual today to take up and act upon the case of Charles C. Glover, the millionaire bank president, whom a special house committee found guilty of contempt for assault upon Representative Sims, of Tennessee, in Farragut square on April 18. The incident was the sequel of criticism made by Mr. Sims upon Mr. Glover in connection with real estate transactions in Washington.

A special committee of the house recommended that the speaker issue a warrant for Mr. Glover's arrest to answer the contempt charge.

Democratic Leader Underwood said that the matter would be discussed and disposed of at today's session.

When Representative Davis called up the resolution Representative Campbell, of Kansas, asked for an hour to speak against the committee's recommendations. An arrangement was finally made to allow five hours of debate on the resolution, and Representative Davis opened the discussion with explanation of the committee's report.

Representative Moon, of Tennessee, attacked the Washington banker. He referred to a conversation between between Representative Johnson, of Kentucky, and Mr. Glover mentioned in the committee's investigation, in which Mr. Glover, according to Representative Johnson, expressed regret that the law prevented duelling.

"The fact that Mr. Glover wanted to fight a duel," said Mr. Moon, "indicates that he had murder in his heart. Not only did he commit a contempt of this house, but he wanted to kill the man who thwarted his attempt to reach his arms into the United States treasury. This is the extent of the offending of Mr. Sims. He stood here to protect the interest of the government; he defeated an attempt to plunder the treasury."

Representative Campbell argued that the house was exceeding its power in undertaking to prescribe punishment for an offense against the law of the land. "We are today," said he, "trying to deny to a citizen of the United States his constitutional right of a trial by jury in the courts of the land, on a charge of assault and battery."

Mr. Glover's attack on Mr. Sims followed a speech in which the Tennessee representative attacked the banker for his part in a real estate transaction in wich the government was interested.
